MILITARY APPRECIATION DAY

NO RETREAT. NO SURRENDER.

Jack Nicklaus
A SIGNATURE GOLF COURSE
The Reserve at Lake Keowee, 15th hole

A great strategy for winning football games.
Not so great when it comes to your weekend home.

Just 17 miles from Death Valley, there's a place to get away from it all. To retreat from the crowds. To surrender to the pleasures of lakeside living. At The Reserve, we've created an extraordinary community with spectacular Jack Nicklaus Signature Golf, boating, and an array of amenities for the entire family. And while the pleasures of living — and playing — on the lake are endless, the opportunity is limited. Call us after the game to reserve your place in this one-of-kind year round retreat. And surrender to the charms of mountain lake living

What's Inside

Tye Hill 6,7

Senior Spotlight

The fifth-year senior has been one of Clemson's most versatile athletes in recent memory. The former Woodland High School star from Saint George, SC has played two different positions in football on opposite sides of the ball, and has also been an ACC sprint champion on the track.

David Dunham 9

Senior Spotlight

It takes a special breed of football player to be on the kickoff coverage team. It is an opportunity that David Dunham has been given for three years, and one he relishes. Never was this more evident than in the opening seconds against arch-rival South Carolina last November in Death Valley.

Jamaal Fudge 12,13

Senior Spotlight

Jacksonville, FL has been very good to Clemson, providing Gator Bowl wins and several great players. Adding to that list of players is senior free safety Jamaal Fudge, who hopes that the Tigers can add a victory in the inaugural ACC Championship game to the list of Clemson wins in his hometown.

Marion Hobby 49

First-Year Tiger Assistant Coach

The defensive line coach is in his first year as a Tiger assistant after spending six seasons at Mississippi, and has strong memories of the great Clemson teams from the 1980s. He now has the goal to make this defensive line unit one that makes Tiger fans, young and old, remember those stellar squads.

Instant Replay 125

ACC Implementing Its Use in 2005

Instant replay will make its ACC debut in 2005. After the Big 10 became the nation's first conference to utilize instant replay in 2004, the ACC has joined eight other leagues in implementing its use. With slight differences compared to the NFL's system, instant replay will give replay officials the power to correct calls.

The Last Word 128

Major Rudolf Anderson, Jr.

There are many stories of heroism by Clemson graduates in previous wars, but one stands out. His actions did not take place during a war, but they averted war, one that might have been the most devastating ever. He became the first recipient of the Air Force Cross, the highest honor given by the U.S. Air Force.

Today's Game

Clemson vs. Texas A&M

Today's Head Coaches Among Winningest

Both head coaches in tonight's game rank among the top-10 winningest active coaches in Division I football. Clemson's Tommy Bowden has a 62-33 record for a 65.3-percent winning percentage, the 10th-best percentage among active coaches, while Dennis Franchione stands at 166-86-2 for a 65.7-percent mark, the ninth-best percentage.

Both are in their ninth seasons as Division I head coaches. Franchione is the sixth-winningest active coach on the total wins list, just below former Tiger Head Coach Ken Hatfield, who is fifth with 167 wins. Hatfield is entering his 12th season at Rice.

Bowden's father, Bobby Bowden of Florida State, is fourth on the list with a 77.2-percent figure. He is just behind Steve Spurrier, who is back on the list as the head coach at South Carolina after coaching two years with the Washington Redskins.

The winningest active coaching list is another document of Clemson's difficult schedule this year. Clemson must face three of the top-10 winningest active coaches in Spurrier (3), Bobby Bowden (4), and Franchione (9).

Clemson-Texas A&M Series History

Texas A&M holds a 3-0 advantage in the series against Clemson. The two teams met last year in College Station, and the Aggies came away with a 27-6 victory. Texas A&M first played Clemson in 1973, a 30-15 Aggie win behind a 204-yard rushing performance from Bubba Bean. The following year, Texas A&M shut out Clemson 24-0 behind defensive All-American Ed Simonini.

One of the highlights for Clemson of the 1973 game was an 81-yard punt by Mitch Tyner, the longest punt in Tiger history by three yards. The punt took place on Clemson's first possession of the game and went from the Clemson 19 into the endzone. He later had a 55-yard punt in the first quarter and ended the day with a 45-yard average on eight boots.

Bennie Cunningham, Clemson's All-America tight end who later went on to play for the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers, had a 16-yard touchdown catch from Ken Pengitore to give Clemson a 6-0 lead in the 1973 game. But, Clemson would have just three more completions the rest of the day, and Pengitore finished just 4-18 through the air. The Tigers had 183 yards rushing and 59 yards passing in the game.

In 1974, it was once again the Texas A&M Wishbone rushing attack that was the difference, as Emory Bellard's team rushed for 434 yards, still the sixth-highest opponent total in Tiger history and the seventh-highest total in Aggie history. Bean had 18 carries for 182 yards, giving him 40 carries for 386 yards in two games against Clemson.

Texas A&M was ranked #20 in the Associated Press poll entering the game, and finished the year with a #16 final ranking and an 8-3 record. Clemson would lose its next game in 1974, then win seven of its last nine, including wins over Georgia and Georgia Tech to finish 7-4. Despite the fine records for both teams, this was an era where there were only 15 bowl games, and neither team played in one.

Two of Top Four QBs on Display Tonight?

According to CollegeFootballNews.com, one of the leading websites covering college football, two of the top NFL quarterback prospects will be on display at Death Valley on Saturday evening. Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst is ranked third among NFL prospects by the site, while Texas A&M signal-caller Reggie McNeal is ranked fourth.

Whitehurst has the upperhand in terms of career stats, leading in passing yards, completions, and total offense. In fact, Whitehurst has more career passing yards than any other active Division I player. But, McNeal is coming off the better season, as he had 3,509 yards of total offense in 2004 off 2,791 yards passing and 718 yards rushing. The passing yardage total was a school record, and he threw just four interceptions. He defeated Clemson in the 2004 head-to-head battle in College Station, TX when he had over 300 yards of total offense.

Texas A&M Overview

Texas A&M had a 7-5 record last season under second-year Head Coach Dennis Franchione. The club earned a bid to the Cotton Bowl after a 7-4 regular season, the program's first bowl bid since 2001. With the return of one of the top dual-threat quarterbacks in the nation, plus experienced running back Courtney Lewis, the Aggies are ranked in the top 25 of just about every preseason poll.

McNeal is the only returning quarterback in the nation who averaged 55 yards rushing and 230 yards passing in 2004. One of his breakout games came against Clemson when he had 178 yards passing and 129 yards rushing. He broke the school's total offense record (3,509) and had six 300-yard games.

Lewis gained 165 yards rushing on a career-high 28 carries against Clemson last year and returns with hopes of reaching 1,000 yards for the season, a plateau he attained in 2003. He already has 21 touchdowns under his belt. The outlook for Lewis' rushing game is bright, because Texas A&M returns four starters on the offensive line, led by seniors Aldo De La Garza and Jami Hightower. Hightower has made 29 career starts.

Defensively, Texas A&M still refers to its defense as the "Wrecking Crew." Three-year starter Johnny Jolly is one of the top run-stoppers in the Big 12. He had 45 tackles last year. Senior Lee Foliaki of Euless, TX is the top returning tackler among the linebackers with 63, including 11 against Oklahoma in the narrow Texas A&M loss near the end of the season.

Gaines Adams and the Tiger defense will try to contain the dual-threat abilities of Reggie McNeal, who had over 100 yards both rushing and passing against Clemson in 2004.

Today's Game

Clemson vs. Texas A&M

All-America candidate Jaxson Appel leads the secondary. Appel has been the cornerstone of the Texas A&M secondary for three years and already has nearly 300 tackles to go with eight interceptions. Todd Pegram of Plano, TX, the same hometown as former Clemson linebacker John Leake, connected on 12-13 field goals last year and is a Lou Groza Award candidate.

Koenning vs. Koenning When Aggies Have Ball

One of the more interesting matchups from a coaching standpoint will take place when Texas A&M has the ball. The Aggies' offensive coordinator and Clemson's defensive coordinator are both named Koenning and are cousins, and will match strategies when Texas A&M has the ball. This will be the first time they have coached against each other.

Vic Koenning is in his first season as Clemson's defensive coordinator after leading Troy's fine defense the last two years. Koenning's defense at Troy was sixth in the nation in pass defense, eighth in rushing defense, and 10th in scoring defense in 2004. The only other Division I school to rank in the top 10 in all three of those categories last year was National Champion Southern California.

Texas A&M's Les Koenning is in his third season at Texas A&M, including his 25th year in coaching. He was at Alabama with Dennis Franchione before going to Texas A&M. He has coached against Clemson previously, as he was the Duke offensive coordinator and quarterback coach in 1998 when the Blue Devils defeated Clemson in Durham. He also led the Texas A&M offense last year when the Aggies defeated Clemson in College Station.

Clemson Openers vs. Ranked Opponent

This is the third time in the last four years that Clemson has opened the season against a top-20 team. The Tigers opened against top-10 teams from Georgia in 2002 and 2003, and now will face a #17-ranked (both polls) Texas A&M team in the opener for 2005. The Tigers are 1-6 in the previous season openers against a ranked team.

Clemson had not faced a ranked team in a season opener since 1982 prior to the 2002 game when Georgia was ranked #8 by Associated Press in its preseason poll. Of the seven previous years Clemson has opened against a ranked team, Georgia has been the opponent three times. Texas A&M, Clemson's opening ranked opponent in 2005, was also a ranked opponent in the opening game of 1974.

Clemson's only season-opening win in history over a ranked opponent took place at North Carolina in 1959, a 20-18 victory over a #12-ranked North Carolina team for Frank Howard's Tigers. The highest ranked opponent Clemson has faced in a season opener took place in 1963 when Frank Howard's team lost at #4 Oklahoma by a score of 31-14.

Home Schedule the Toughest?

In many ways, this year's home schedule is the most challenging in Clemson history. Four of the six opponents (Texas A&M, Miami (FL), Boston College, Florida State) are ranked in the preseason top 25 of the AP poll, a first in Clemson history.

We will have to watch the polls to see how many of those teams are ranked when they come to Clemson. The Tigers have never had four top-25 teams come to Tigertown in the same year. In fact, only the 1988 and 2003 seasons have seen as many as three top-25 teams play against Clemson in Death Valley. In 1988, Clemson lost to #10 Florida State at home, but beat top-25 teams Duke and South Carolina later in the season. In 2003, Clemson lost the opener at home to #9 Georgia, then beat #25 Virginia in overtime and defeated #3 Florida State.

Overall, Clemson is 20-23-1 against top-25 teams in Death Valley over the years. Coach Bowden is 4-4 against top-25 teams at home in his six years, including the 26-10 win over #3 Florida State in 2003, the highest-ranked team Clemson has beaten in history at home.

The number of games against top-25 teams at home shows how the ACC has gotten stronger over the years. Clemson played just four games against top-25 teams at home between 1942-66. That is four games in 25 years. However, in the last 25 years, Clemson has played 32 games against top-25 teams at home.

Whitehurst on Johnny Unitas Golden Arm List

Clemson quarterback Charlie Whitehurst is one of 22 senior quarterbacks named to the top candidates list for the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award. The award goes to the top senior quarterback in the nation each year and is presented by the Frank Camp Chapter of the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Educational Foundation.

Whitehurst is one of four ACC quarterbacks on the list, as he also joins Jay Davis of N.C. State, Marques Hagans of Virginia, and Quinton Porter of Boston College. Texas A&M senior Reggie McNeal is also on the list.

Whitehurst will be entering his fourth year as Clemson's starting quarterback. He has started each of the last 29 games, and the Tigers are 18-11 in those games. He has passed for 7,182 yards in his career so far. Earlier, Whitehurst was named as a preseason top-50 candidate for the Maxwell Award, which goes to the top all-around player in college football, and was a preseason candidate for the Davey O'Brien Award, which goes to the nation's top quarterback.

Buckner to Vote in Harris Poll

Former Clemson All-ACC defensive tackle and current Carolina Panther Brentson Buckner has been selected as one of 109 panelists voting in the new Harris Interactive College Football Poll.

The Harris poll is composed of former college players, coaches, and administrators, plus some members of the media, and it will replace the Associated Press poll in the formula used by the BCS in selecting teams for the four major bowl games at the end of the season.

Buckner will post his Harris poll vote each week on his website, BrentsonBuckner.com. He is the only voter with a connection to Clemson on the panel. Now in his 12th year in the NFL, Buckner is the only current NFL player among the 109 voters. He was nominated for the position on the panel by Clemson and the ACC. Each conference in the BCS submitted nominations for the poll this summer.

A native of Columbus, GA, Buckner played for the Tigers from 1990-93 (red-shirted 1989) and was a First-Team All-ACC defensive tackle in 1993. He concluded his career with a 12-tackle performance in the Peach Bowl win over Kentucky and was named the defensive player-of-the-game.

He was a starter on Clemson's 1991 ACC Championship team that led the nation in rushing defense and finished his career with 46 career tackles for loss, including 22 sacks. He is still seventh in Tiger history in tackles for loss and fifth in sacks.

Book on Jim Phillips On Sale This Weekend

A new book entitled, "Still Roaring, Tales of a Life in Broadcasting" will hit the bookstores this week and will be available in the Clemson area. The book is on the life and times of Jim Phillips, the voice of Clemson athletics for 36 years. Ken Tysiac, who covered Clemson athletics for the Anderson Independent and The State from 1995-03, is the author. Tysiac now covers ACC sports for the Charlotte Observer.

The two actually started work on the book in 1998, and they had just about finished their work on it when Phillips suddenly passed away in September of 2003. In interviews before his death, Phillips told the story of his life, and much of it centers around his career at Clemson. Any Tiger fan will enjoy it.

Tysiac will be in town throughout the weekend at various book signings. He will be at the Anderson Touchdown Club on Friday at 12:00 PM, and at Mr. Knickerbocker in downtown Clemson on Saturday from 11:00 AM to 12:30 PM and 3:30 PM to 5:00 PM. He will also be at the campus bookstore on Saturday from 1:00 PM to 3:00 PM. On top of all that, he will cover the game for the Charlotte Observer.

Tye Hill

Senior Spotlight

By Kyle Tucker

Growing up in Saint George, SC, Clemson cornerback Tye Hill listened to the critics. "People told me when I was younger that I would be like every other athlete we had from Saint George," said Hill. "They said I would turn into nothing but a memory. I just kept quiet and shook my head, and used that as motivation."

Hill has been playing football for as long as he can remember, and recalls the makeshift uniform he created as a youngster. "I used to get as much tissue as I could find and stuff it under my shirt to make it look like shoulder pads," laughed Hill. "I was usually the youngest of the kids that played football in my neighborhood, and I think that helped make me tougher."

Playing at Woodland High School in Saint George, Hill busted onto the scene as a junior with a 270-yard rushing performance at Daniel High School. Hill scored on touchdown runs of 80 and 85 yards in that game, and it is a night he remembers fondly. "That was my most memorable high school game," recalled Hill. "After that game, I started to get a lot of attention from many different schools."

Among those schools was Clemson, and Hill listed the energetic Tiger coaching staff as one of his reasons for coming to Tigertown. "The coaching staff here was young and I felt like I could relate to them. They also told me that I could come here and play running back, and a lot of schools were telling me they wanted me to play cornerback. I wanted to run the ball, and I also wanted to stay fairly close to home. Clemson was the perfect fit for me."

After red-shirting in 2001, Hill was ready to help the Tiger offense, but had to stay patient behind senior Bernard Rambert. The 2002 season's sixth game was a road trip to Charlottesville to play Virginia, and Hill made one of his first memories as a Tiger. With Clemson trailing the Cavaliers 6-3 and time ticking down before half-time, Hill took a Willie Simmons handoff and scampered 32 yards for his first career touchdown.

Hill's rushing attempts were mostly limited for the rest of the 2002 season, with the exception of the North Carolina game. Carrying 14 times, Hill gained 105 yards and scored a touchdown. Combined with Rambert's 106-yard day, it is the only time Clemson has had two 100-yard rushing performances in the same game since 1996.

In the winter of 2003, Hill's career as a sprinter on the Tiger track team began to flourish. During the winter and spring of 2004, Hill won the ACC Championship in the 60m indoors, and the 100m outdoors. He joined former Tiger and Olympic Gold Medalist Shawn Crawford as one of seven Clemson sprinters in history to win both league titles in the same year. Hill was also an All-American in track in 2003 as a member of Clemson's NCAA runner-up 4x100m relay team. He enjoyed running track, but realized something had to change if he was going to continue to juggle football and track.

"I enjoyed being a sprinter, but I knew that if I was going to be a running back, I would have add some weight," explained Hill. "That probably would have ended my sprinting days, so I looked at some alternatives. Football was what I wanted to do the most, and cornerback seemed like a good choice for me. I talked about it with my parents and the coaches, and I used Terence Newman as an example. He was a track guy and a cornerback (from Kansas State) that ended up being a high draft pick. My goal when I came to Clemson was to go to the NFL, and I finally realized that my best shot at reaching that would be as a cornerback."

For the defensive coordinator at the time, John Lovett, the decision by Hill to change positions was a welcome one. Lovett had recruited Hill two years earlier while he was still at Auburn. The position he wanted to have Hill play...cornerback, of course.

"To be honest, Coach Lovett was mad at me at first," chuckled Hill. "He had recruited me earlier to play that position, but it had taken me a while to realize he was right."

Many football analysts list cornerback as the toughest of any position on the field to play. For someone always looking for new challenges, the idea of playing one of those spots opposite freshman All-American Justin Miller was a great one to Hill.

Miller had one of the most productive seasons by a true-freshman defensive back in Clemson history, and Hill knew that if he was to earn a starting position, other teams would likely test his skills. Never was this more apparent than in the 2003 Florida State game.

The Seminoles came into Death Valley on a cold November night with a #3 national ranking and an 8-1 record. According to Hill, it was no secret that their gameplan that evening was to attack his side.

"That game was on such a big stage because of their high ranking," remembered Hill. "I had heard all week that they would be coming at me, and I welcomed that challenge. I feel like when I am challenged, I play my best. I was very excited for that game."

Hill played running back as a freshman in the 2002 season and had a 105-yard rushing performance at North Carolina that year.

A play late in the first quarter of that game was a career changer for Hill. With Clemson leading 3-0 and Florida State driving, Hill picked off Chris Rix in front of the Florida State bench.

"I like to say that I felt comfortable at cornerback a few weeks earlier against Virginia (a 30-27 Tiger overtime victory), but when I made that interception, my confidence grew, and that is when I finally began to grow up as a cornerback," said Hill. "I had no choice that night, because if I didn't play well, we would have lost that game."

Clemson went on to its highest-ranked win in school history that night with a 26-10 victory. It was the first in a series of four games against Florida State, Duke, South Carolina, and Tennessee in which the Tigers were 4-0 and outscored the four opponents 156-48. Hill played a key role in the Tigers' turnaround in 2003 that ended with a #22 national ranking.

In the 2004 season, Hill tied the Clemson record for pass breakups in a season with 21. Teams often found that going away from Miller and towards Hill was not always the best strategy.

"I honestly loved the fact that teams wanted to challenge me," remarked Hill. "I felt that I could cover any receiver teams put in front of me because I was confident in myself, but more importantly I was confident that I had practiced hard. Every day in practice I tried to go out and make myself a better football player, and I was ready for every situation we could run into."

Midway through the season, teams began to challenge Miller just as much as they challenged Hill. The two combined to give Clemson quite a duo at the two cornerback positions, and were a key reason the Tigers finished 2004 with another strong finish. Clemson won five of its last six games in 2004, with the defense yielding only 12.1 points per game over that stretch. The Tigers also finished ranked 11th nationally in pass efficiency defense.

Entering the 2005 season, Hill envisions a new set of challenges not only for himself, but the entire team. It is his senior season, and one that Hill looks forward to with a high level of anticipation.

"This season is going to be fun, and our team has worked really hard to be ready for it," explained Hill. "I think a lot about how teams are going to attack us, and I have to be ready for that. Even though I have had some success in the past, teams are going to continue to come after me, because they will think if they can break me down, then they can break down our whole defense. It is a challenge that I want, and it is one that I practice hard to be ready for every day."

Hill tries to share as much knowledge as he can with Clemson's younger defensive backs. "I try to encourage our other corners and safeties as much as I can. I hope that I can show them that I practice hard, and hopefully they will too when they see me. I tell them that you have to take every snap in practice as though it was in a game. Every step, every drill, every part of practice, you have to treat just as though it was a game. We have to prepare ourselves mentally and physically, because 80,000 people screaming is a lot different than 105 on the field at a practice."

With a position change and some big wins during the past three seasons, he has made memories at Clemson that he says will last a lifetime. However, there are three moments in his career that stick out the most to this point.

"My first touchdown run at Virginia is something I'll always remember. If I were to make a list of my favorites, I would then list the interception in the 2003 Florida State game. Finally, the 2002 game at North Carolina when I had 100 yards rushing is another highlight. I hope my senior year is my most memorable, and hope our team can win the ACC title."

Hill, who wears #8, also pointed to the relationships he has made with teammates, both current and former, as something he will always remember about playing at Clemson. "I get along with all of my teammates, and I try to talk to everybody on the team when I get a chance. My closest friends have been Airese Currie and Kyle Browning. Now that I have switched to defense, I have gotten to know Jamaal Fudge better, and we hang out a lot more. I also was able to get better acquainted with Sergio Gilliam and C.J. Gaddis this past spring."

Combined with his teammates, it has been the coaching staff that has helped make Hill feel as if

Hill credits his parents as having the biggest influence on his life.

Clemson was his second home. He has had three different positions coaches in five years, but says all three have had a positive impact on his life, both on and off the field.

"I had a great relationship with Coach (Rick) Stockstill that we formed when he recruited me, and I was sad when he left," reflected Hill. "I have a great relationship with Coach (Burton) Burns, and even though he isn't my position coach, we still get along well. Coach Lovett and I had our times where we didn't see eye to eye, but he turned me into the player I am today, and I thank him for that. Coach (David) Blackwell and I tease each other a lot, as do Coach Bowden and I. Coach (Vic) Koenning has taught me a lot about the game as well."

Hill points to his parents as having the biggest influence on his life growing up, and his father (John) comes to every game. When asked if his mother (Glennie) makes it to the games, it is a different story.

"My mom will be the first to tell you that I am hard-headed," smiled the fifth-year senior. "She is a good mother, and she worries about me sometimes. My mother does not want me to get hurt, so sometimes it's hard for her to watch, whether it is football or track."

"In high school, she would work in the concession stand so she would not have to watch. My father, however, would do whatever he had to do to make it to a game, and I love having him here to watch me play."

Saint George can be proud of Tye Hill, as the town has watched him grow from an undersized tailback to a big-play cornerback during his five years at Clemson. Whether she watches or keeps her eyes closed during games, Mrs. Glennie Hill can certainly smile and take pride in her son.

Hill won the 2004 ACC title in the 60m indoors and 100m outdoors. He is also regarded as one of the fastest college football players in the nation.

Uncommon Wisdom

David Dunham

Senior Spotlight

By Courtney Adams

It's the Clemson-Carolina game. For players and fans of the two schools, this is the moment they wait for each year. When it's all over, they will have 364 days to either gloat in victory or make excuses for a defeat. The anticipation grows as the opening kickoff draws near, and each player, coach, and fan prays for a great outcome.

It was certainly that way last November 20. The scene was Death Valley and Clemson was kicking off to their arch-rival Gamecocks. A bowl bid was riding on the game for both teams, and this was the final season for South Carolina Head Coach Lou Holtz. Everything was set for a great afternoon, and each team wanted to get off to a great start.

Enter David Dunham. The linebacker took his normal position on the Clemson kickoff team in the middle of the field. As Cory Boyd fielded the kickoff for South Carolina, Dunham had him in his sights. He raced down the field and to his amazement, was not blocked. Dunham put a tremendous hit on Boyd and the ball popped loose. Clemson's Steven Jackson recovered at the nine-yard-line and sent the Tiger faithful into a frenzy! Two plays later, tailback Reggie Merriweather ran three yards for a touch-down and Clemson had the first score in the annual battle.

"I was the 'hot' guy on the play," explained Dunham, "which makes me the one going right to the football. This time, I had a free range to the ball, so I ran straight to it and surprisingly, no one blocked me.

"It felt like I dove 70 yards," he said with a big smile as he described the tackle. "The team always picks on me, because when you watch it on TV, it looks like I took the majority of the hit; but I made a solid hit on him."

That hit set the stage for a big Clemson afternoon, which ended with a 29-7 Tiger win.

It has not always been so easy for the Lake City, FL native. He has had to deal with the normal frustrations of college life - adapting to a new situation, being away from home, and finding his way in both the classroom and on the football field. Through it all, he has shown amazing resilience.

David Dunham's hit of Cory Boyd and subsequent fumble on the opening kickoff set the tone in Clemson's 29-7 win over South Carolina in 2004.

"In the beginning, it was really frustrating," Dunham said. "I came in as a freshman and was going to play right away. Our coaches had me playing a position I had never played before. I was at free safety and I thought I would adjust to it, but the game was a lot faster than I was at that time."

Dunham is quick to give praise to a teammate and his family for helping him through these tough times. "I had great support," Dunham stated. "Jamaal Fudge helped me, and my mom and grandparents supported me. I could call them any time I needed."

With a smile, Dunham said his family has a long history of basketball players. "As weird as it is, everyone else in my family played basketball. My mom played college basketball, and I am the only person who has not played college basketball."

Dunham really beams when he mentions his mom. "My mom is the most influential person in my life," he said.

He also explained it was his mom who taught him the game of football. "She really taught me how to play the game. She taught me how to tackle and how to do everything. I grew up in a single-parent household, and she was an awesome businesswoman. So, for her to take that time out and spend it with me was really special."

During Dunham's junior year in high school, he committed to Notre Dame to play football, but was not sure if it was the best decision. "They were the first school that offered, so I just jumped on the train," Dunham recalled. "Miami (FL) and Florida State came kind of out of the blue and recruited me because I was in the area."

Dunham chose the Tigers because of their commitment to let him play. "Clemson actually held true to what they were saying about what position they wanted me to play. Clemson was going to let me continue to play linebacker, safety, or at least keep me on defense."

For the past few years, Dunham has played behind Leroy Hill at linebacker. He has been one of Clemson's top special teams players and is renowned for his ability to make tackles in the open field. He had 28 tackles last year and 20 of them were individual stops. He has not missed a game in his career and has played 37 in a row, something only two other active Tigers can claim.

But, this year is Dunham's year to shine. With Hill's graduation, he is destined to see more playing time and is competing with Nick Watkins for a starting spot.

"I am very excited because this is my first chance, first opportunity I have had to get out of the shadows. The past two years I have been playing behind Leroy Hill. I have always been his backup, but now I can have my own plays."

Dunham knows he has some big shoes to fill, as Hill was last year's ACC Defensive Player-of-the-Year and is now with the Seattle Seahawks.

Graduation is near, and Dunham's future is on his mind. "I am considering going back to school, and then maybe attending dental school or even getting my teaching certificate. I did my internship with Jeff Davis this summer, and that gave me a big opportunity to see what the fundraising world was like, and it seems fun."

Dunham even had some practical experience when it came to fundraising events. He attended many functions in the spring and summer, and spoke to large gatherings about the benefits the program would receive from the WestZone project.

"David did a great job and is a terrific representative of Clemson University," said Davis, one of Clemson's greatest linebackers in history. "He is really a good public speaker. He is going to be successful no matter what he decides to do with his degree."

Working with Davis, the former Tiger All-America linebacker, this past summer gave Dunham the chance to work with the Call Me Mister® program. Call Me Mister® is a Clemson program encouraging more African-American males to be role models in the elementary school classroom. Dunham worked with Davis on raising money for the program and seeing the importance of teaching children.

David Dunham is the type of person that enjoys life and enjoys being a Tiger football player. With his positive attitude and his bright smile, he shows others the importance of family, friends, and Clemson Football.

Jamaal Fudge

Senior Spotlight

By Christine Long

Jamaal Fudge wants to go home.

The Clemson free safety is a native of Jacksonville, FL, the site of the inaugural Atlantic Coast Conference Championship game, and he wants to play in front of his home crowd.

However, the Tigers must successfully navigate through one of their toughest schedules to date to win the Atlantic Division of the new 12-team conference for a chance to play on December 3. Clemson plays host to perennial top-25 teams Texas A&M, Miami (FL), Boston College, and Florida State this season along with Duke and Temple, while traveling to Maryland, N.C. State, Georgia Tech, Wake Forest, and South Carolina.

Fudge said the team's goal is to reach the title game. "It's the first ACC Championship game; and I want to be there."

The senior is glad that the conference decided to expand and thinks that there is parity from top to bottom. "It's showing that the ACC has become a powerhouse football league. Anybody can beat you."

The preseason honors Fudge has received are then an even bigger mark of respect in such a talented conference. He was named first-team All-ACC by Athlon and Sporting News, and earned a second-team selection by Lindy's. Sporting News also ranked Fudge as the seventh-best free safety in the nation. Pretty impressive considering Fudge was the Tigers' starting strong safety last season and that he arrived at Clemson as a cornerback.

Fudge had little problems converting to safety from a corner after he arrived in Tigertown, as evidence by his statistics from the last two seasons. "Switching from cornerback to safety wasn't too bad," said the fifth-year senior. "I had to become more physical. It was a lot more pressure to read the defenses, but it turned out to be a good decision by the coaches and my part."

Fudge earned the starting position at rover, which is basically a strong safety, to begin the 2003 season and has not missed a start since. For those of you counting, his streak is 24 straight entering tonight's game. He finished third on the team in tackles that year, recording 116, and played more snaps than any other Tiger defender with 850.

Fudge, whose teammates affectionately refer to as the "Candyman," is known for his physical style of play. The hard hitter stands just 5'10" tall and frequently faces receivers whose six-foot-plus heights tower above him, but he does not let his size interfere with making a hard hit. Nor does he let it affect his productivity.

"Jamaal is an unsung hero; a steady, quiet player," Clemson first-year Defensive Coordinator and Defensive Backs Coach Vic Koenning said. "He's been a productive player the last few years, but hasn't gotten the acclaim of a Justin Miller or a Tye Hill. He isn't going to draw that kind of attention to himself, but he typifies the 'actions speak louder than words' cliché."

Fudge's style befits him, as his mother named him after four-time NBA Champion Jamaal Wilkes. Although Wilkes' colleagues in the league respected his subtle style of play, his many accomplishments were often overlooked by the casual fan. That was the case in college as well, as Wilkes played in the shadow of Bill Walton at UCLA.

Harry Potter fans may also recognize some similarities between Fudges, as Clemson's defensive back and the wizarding world's Minister of Magic share a common surname. Both characters can be described as defending the "good guys" and are considered safe-keepers, one of the endzone and the other of peace. I think, however, that Tiger fans can be assured that their Fudge will not be facing imperious curses from Death Eaters or Lord Voldemort's evil powers.

Nonetheless, like his namesake Wilkes, the current Tiger feels he is often underrated around the conference due to his height. Yet, those same people fail to notice his ability to hit, and hit hard.

One of his most notable hits came during the 2003 season against #24 Virginia. Fudge knocked out a third-down pass to Cavalier tight end Heath Miller in the endzone to prevent a touchdown. Virginia then had to settle for a field goal in the game that the Tigers eventually claimed in overtime.

That game ranks as Fudge's self-described top performance. He turned in 20 total tackles that day, which tied the Clemson record for tackles by a defensive back.

"It seemed like every play I was making a tackle," remembered Fudge.

In another of his best games, Fudge had two interceptions at South Carolina in the Tigers' 63-17 victory. That game is also a Fudge favorite, but he wishes he had been able to score.

"I tripped," he explained regretfully of his return that ended at the South Carolina three.

Fudge's best all-around game came against #24 Virginia in 2003. He tied a Clemson record for tackles by a defensive back with 20 and broke up a potential touchdown by Heath Miller.

He had four total picks in 2003 to lead the team in that category.

In 2004, Fudge recorded three more interceptions, which tied current New York Jet Justin Miller for first on the team and seventh in the ACC. Fudge has a chance this year to become the first player in school history to lead the Tigers in interceptions in three consecutive seasons. Current NFL players Dexter McCleon and Antwan Edwards are the only other Tigers since 1972 to lead the team in interceptions for two straight seasons.

In addition to his seven interceptions, which he has returned for 121 yards, Fudge has also broken up 19 passes over his career. He collected two in his red-shirt freshman campaign, seven as a sophomore, and 10 last season.

His 66 tackles in the 2004 season helped the Tigers achieve a 12th-place mark in the nation in pass efficiency defense. Entering tonight's game, he has recorded at least one tackle in 34 consecutive games. In fact, Fudge has posted at least one tackle in every game in which he has participated on defense at Clemson.

He has also been responsible for two fumbles over his career, with both coming during the 2003 season. In another game-saving play for the Jacksonville native, Fudge forced the ball loose from North Carolina's Darian Durant at the one-yard line with just 42 seconds left. David Dunham recovered in the endzone, saving the Tigers' eight-point win.

Growing up, Fudge followed the San Francisco 49ers and their superstar players such as Ronnie Lott, Deion Sanders, Ricky Watters, Steve Young, and Jerry Rice. He did not begin playing the sport himself, however, until he was 11 years old.

Fudge's cousin was a coach for a Pop Warner/Pee Wee league in the Jacksonville area and recruited the young Fudge for his team. His first season was spent playing with and against 13 and 14-year-olds, two and three years his senior.

"He told me, 'We need to get you out playing ball,'" recalled Fudge. "I enjoyed it and made a lot of friends, so I kept playing."

His first position was running back, because he was faster than anybody else. Soon after, he moved to the other side of the ball.

"I developed a mean streak and wanted to play defense," the shy Fudge said.

He claims a different personality comes out when he is on the field.

Although he did not start out as a defensive player, Fudge closely watched the play of Lott and was able to incorporate some of the NFL Hall of Famer's style when he switched sides.

"He had a relentless pursuit to the ball and made good hits," Fudge described. "He intimidated opponents by the way he played, so I try to emulate that."

His mother Joyce Williams could not always attend the games, but she heard about her son's talent and encouraged him at home. Fudge claimed that she often provided him with motivation and has had a big impact on his athletic career.

At Edward H. White High School, Fudge had 81 tackles and nine interceptions as a defensive back. He returned three of those interceptions for touchdowns and recorded four more touchdowns off of punt returns during his senior year. He earned AAAAA all-state honors as both a junior and a senior, as well as all-district, all-area, and all-conference honors.

This was after he had torn his ACL during his sophomore year. Fudge was determined to return from the injury and set his sights on playing college football. The fact that his older brother Maurice was not able to attend college further fueled his desire.

The schools came calling, and Fudge had a decision to make. He chose Clemson and has never once regretted his selection.

Former Assistant Rick Stockstill recruited Fudge and made a good impression with his parents. Stockstill also had a family connection, which Tiger fans should be thankful for, as he used to coach Fudge's uncle Willie Britton at Central Florida.

Stockstill's influence was not the only factor that persuaded Fudge to become a Tiger. Clemson offered many more advantages.

"It was closer to home than Indiana or Arkansas, and the people were friendly when I came," Fudge said. "Everybody made me feel like I already fit in. I would go to the internet sites where people were talking about recruits who could contribute, and my name was on that list."

The fans respected his talents before he played a minute in Memorial Stadium, and Fudge appreciates the support he and the team receive from them.

"There is nothing like gameday in Death Valley and the experience of playing in front of all those fans."

The atmosphere and tradition of Tiger football was another reason Fudge chose Clemson.

"You hear about the game from Thursday through Sunday," he laughed.

Fudge also has great admiration for the Hill, not only for its mystique, but for its steepness and challenges as well.

"Rubbing the Rock and running down the Hill - nobody else experiences anything like that in college football. I've learned to walk down sideways after watching a few people stumble."

As a senior this year, maybe he will be able to set the pace, though it often depends on which bus arrives at the gate first.

Fudge will graduate on December 22 with a degree in parks, recreation, & tourism management. His plans are then to focus on the NFL draft, and concentrate on training for the combine and tryouts. However, he understands the value of his diploma.

"I'm going to give the NFL a shot, but if it doesn't work out, I have a degree to fall back on."

Although many of the sport management majors hope to enter the coaching field, Fudge has absolutely no desire to pursue that career path. He has observed his coaching staff's lifestyle - at work by 7:00 AM and often at the office until 10:00 at night - and wants no part of it.

"I do not want to coach," he stated emphatically. "It is too stressful."

However, he does not have any specific career plans following his football career, at whichever level it concludes. He just wants to take a break and enjoy life after the demanding schedule of a student-athlete.

Maybe his name and/or nickname will be prophetic in ways off the field. Could we possibly see Fudge serving in politics, protecting the country? Or perhaps he will open and run a sweet shop?

Right now, though, all we can be sure of is that the Jacksonville native is awaiting a trip home.

Clemson University President James F. Barker came to the office in 1999 with a clear vision of Clemson's future. A 1970 Clemson University graduate, Barker has established a goal of making the university one of the nation's top-20 public universities - an institution that draws outstanding faculty and students, provides an unmatched academic experience, and helps drive the state's economic development.

Clemson has made significant strides in this area and reached a #34 ranking among public institutions according to U.S. News & World Report in 2006. That represents a five-position jump in the last three years and a 38-position improvement since 1997.

"South Carolina needs a top-tier research university, and our students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research, and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Clemson, already South Carolina's top-ranked public university, is making strides toward that goal. During Barker's presidency, the university has:

- been recognized as TIME Magazine's Public College-of-the-Year;
- developed an academic strategic plan with eight emphasis areas aligned with the state's economic needs;
- implemented an enrollment management plan to protect the quality of classroom teaching and allow for more student/faculty interaction;
- redesigned the general education curriculum to focus on learning outcomes, and give undergraduates more opportunities for study abroad, service-learning, and research activities;
- more than doubled external research funding; and
- completed Clemson's largest capital campaign.

Working with private industry and state leaders, Barker also has steered Clemson into a greater economic development role. In a span of just six months, Clemson broke ground for the Clemson University International Center for Automotive Research (Clemson-ICAR) in Greenville, SC, dedicated a state-of-the-art

Building a Future for Clemson biosystems research complex, and constructed a state-of-the-art Advanced Materials Research Laboratory at the Clemson Research Park. All three projects represent substantial investment in areas related to South Carolina's most promising economic clusters.

Barker also is becoming a leading voice in higher education in South Carolina and beyond. He chaired the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the regional accrediting body, during a period that included the search for a new president, and served as chair of the ACC Council of Presidents for three consecutive years, including the 2003-04 academic year when he was significantly involved in the expansion of the league with the addition of Boston College, Miami (FL), and Virginia Tech.

He also has earned recognition as a community leader, receiving South Carolina's Order of the Palmetto, induction into the Boys & Girls Club Hall of Fame, the Greater Greenville Chamber of Commerce's Buck Mickel Award for Business and Community Leadership, and Anderson Independent-Mail's "Pointing the Way" Leadership Award for Community Service.

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson in 1970 and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO in 1973. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

Jim & Marcia Barker

Barker's Goals by 2010

Academics, Research, & Service

1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson's academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly-regarded faculty and staff.
5. Seek and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life

1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize and appreciate Clemson's distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Clemson's National Reputation

1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty members win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Educational Resources

1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Student Performance

1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top-10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

Barker, Clemson's 14th President, is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. He was also named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have a son and daughter-in-law, Jacob and Rita Bolt Barker, and another son, Britt.

Dr. Terry Don Phillips

Athletic Director

Clemson Athletic Director Dr. Terry Don Phillips is known for his love of Tiger traditions, spirit, and pride, deemed Solid Orange. Yet his deep satisfaction comes with what that united Clemson strength of mind brings, "a reality toward building a model program that can compete at the highest levels in all sports."

As visible as the statewide "orange outbreak" of Tiger faithful that Phillips promotes, a towering mark of his mission emerged this year when his plan for the WestZone expansion of Memorial Stadium progressed to near round-the-clock construction. As has been his style for over 25 years in all aspects of athletic administration, his focus is on enhancing the infrastructure in a deliberate, quality manner.

"There's nothing worse than trying to maintain status quo," said Phillips, who became Clemson's 10th athletic director on July 1, 2002. That motto has been a basic tenet that has characterized his career as an administrator and his pursuit to develop Clemson into a model athletic program in the 21st century. His beliefs are in line with the University's overall goal of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the nation.

His resolve comes from a unique balance of experience in nearly every phase of college athletics as well as a devotion to higher education that includes both a doctorate and law degree. He remains a classroom presence by teaching a Sports Law section for Clemson's Department of Accountancy and Legal Studies. In addition, Phillips is chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all university and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions.

Those influences are obvious in his strategic plan for Clemson Athletics, which provides for a model program that can compete at the highest levels with academic integrity, concern for the student-athlete, financial responsibility, and in full compliance.

Steady strides have been made toward these goals through facility improvements and the development of concepts that will serve the entire program, starting with the current endzone expansion at Memorial Stadium. This fall, the facility will feature new lockerrooms for both teams and a new video scoreboard. In 2006, 1,000 premium club seats will open and create a vital new revenue stream for future facilities.

After the completion of the club seats, plans call for a new comprehensive football building at Memorial Stadium. It will benefit the entire department, as it will create additional updated facilities in the McFadden Building for Clemson's Olympic sports program. A "One Clemson Center" will also be constructed to showcase the history of Clemson University, including its military and athletic heritage.

Since Phillips' arrival at Clemson, many highlights toward being a model program have occurred on the field as well, beginning with Clemson's first-ever national championship in golf. His second year included an incredible run on the gridiron to end the season, as Tommy Bowden's Tigers defeated #3 Florida State in November and #6 Tennessee in the Peach Bowl. The women's tennis team was one of three programs to win ACC Championships in the same weekend and advanced to the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament, the first women's athletic team in Clemson history to reach the Final Four in any postseason tournament. Nancy Harris' team duplicated the accomplishment in 2004-05.

In the most recent school year, 15 of Clemson's 19 sports programs advanced to postseason play. The list included six which were chosen for NCAA Tournament competition (baseball, golf, rowing, women's soccer, men's tennis, women's tennis). The Tiger sports program had 62 All-ACC selections, 14 All-America selections, and seven student-athletes who were named at least academic all-region.

In terms of personnel, Phillips made national news when he hired Oliver Purnell as Clemson's head basketball coach in 2003. Purnell has had a history of rejuvenating basketball programs, and it appears he is continuing that trend at Clemson. He led the Tigers to postseason play in 2004-05, their first postseason appearance in six years.

Phillips also enhanced his department's diversity by naming former NCAA Administrator Phil Grayson and former Clemson All-America football player Jeff Davis to athletic director positions. He also promoted Barbara Kennedy-Dixon, one of the greatest ACC women's basketball players in history, to the associate athletic director/senior women's administrator position when Linda White retired in 2005.

Clemson has also continued to raise standards when it comes to the school's overall mission of academics. In the spring of 2005, a record 245 student-athletes were named to the Academic Honor Roll, including a record 121 who were named to the President's List. Additionally, a record-tying eight athletic programs had over a 3.0 semester GPA.

Excellence in academics has been a constant on his resumé. He has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar, American Bar Association, and the Sports Lawyers Association.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in nearly all phases of college athletics. He coached on the football staff at Virginia Tech, supervised spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and had 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level, prior to his appointment at Clemson, coming from Oklahoma State.

Football was transformed from a perennial losing status, defeating Oklahoma during five of the eight years he was associated with Oklahoma State. For this, he received the National Football Foundation Oklahoma Chapter Outstanding Contribution to Amateur Football Award in 2002.

When it came to success on the field and in the classroom, OSU's programs were among the best in the Big 12. The achievements of the Cowboy program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national titles in men's golf, a men's basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, 13 Big 12 titles, and 11 individual national champions. It had 53 academic All-Americans as well.

Before leading Oklahoma State, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was athletic director at Liberty (1980-81) and Louisiana-Lafayette (1983-88). He was also an assistant athletic director at Missouri (1981-83), and began his administrative career in 1979 as an assistant athletic director at Florida.

Phillips began his career in college athletics coaching football. He started as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration.

Winning has been on his resumé since his playing days. At Arkansas, he lettered on three Frank Broyles' teams (1966, 68, 69). The Razorbacks were 27-5 in those three years and played in two Sugar Bowl games.

In addition to Phillips' leadership with the NCAA Infractions Appeals Committee, he also works with the NCAA certification program. He currently serves on several ACC Committees: Finance Committee, chair of the Committee on Infractions and Penalties, Television Committee, the Men's Basketball Committee, and the Football Committee.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis (28) and Sarah-Jane (25), and three stepchildren, Meagan (16), Marshall (14), and Madison (12). His wife Tricia is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, and earlier enjoyed a career in athletics and development. She is now active in the Clemson and Seneca communities.

Tommy Bowden

Head Coach

When one looks at Tommy Bowden's resumé, the first thing that comes to mind is consistency. Clemson's head football coach has completed eight seasons as a Division I head coach, and all eight of his teams have been bowl eligible at the conclusion of the regular season.

Bowden has also shown consistency in terms of improvement over the course of seasons. In both 2003 and 2004, his teams have won five of its last six games. The 2003 team won its last four, including wins over top-10 teams Florida State and Tennessee to finish the year in the top 25 of both polls.

There has also been consistency in terms of success against Clemson's in-state rival (South Carolina). The Tigers have won five of the six meetings with the Gamecocks since Bowden became head coach in 1999, and the 83.3-percent winning percentage is the best of any Tiger head coach in history against the Gamecocks given a minimum of five games. He has an average victory margin of 13.7 points per game in the state-rivalry game, all against future Hall of Fame Head Coach Lou Holtz.

Through eight seasons as a Division I head coach, Bowden has a 62-33 record, a 65.3-percent winning percentage that ranks 10th among winningest active coaches. In conference games, he has never had a sub-.500 record, and his overall conference record stands at 39-21 for a 65.0-percent winning percentage.

Through six years at Clemson, he has a 44-29 mark and five bowl appearances. He has 28 ACC wins as well. The only program with more ACC wins during this time is Florida State. The 44 overall victories rank third in Clemson history in total wins. The 29-7 victory over South Carolina in the 2004 season finale was not only the 600th win in Clemson history, it moved Bowden ahead of Hall of Fame Coach Jess Neely into third place on Clemson's coaching victories list. Only Frank Howard and Danny Ford are ahead of Bowden.

Twice Bowden has been named ACC Coach-of-the-Year (1999,03), joining Howard, Charley Pell, and Ford as the only two-time recipients of that award in Tiger history.

Consistency in his approach is one reason Clemson went from a 1-4 start to bowl eligibility in 2004. It marked the first time since 1963 that a Tiger team had overcome such a deficit to finish with a winning season.

Clemson played a complete game at #10 Miami (FL) on November 6, 2004 and defeated the Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl by a score of 24-17 in overtime. It was the second overtime win of the season for the Tigers, who are 4-0 in extra-session games under Bowden and an NCAA record 5-0 for the history of the program.

The win over Miami gave Bowden and the Tigers three wins over top-10 programs in the last 13 games, something that had been done at Clemson just once previously (1981 National Championship team). All three of those programs (Florida State, Tennessee, Miami) have won the national championship within the last seven seasons.

Over the last two seasons, Bowden has won five games over coaches who have won the national title (Bobby Bowden, Phillip Fulmer, Larry Coker, Holtz (twice)). These big wins have stimulated interest in the program. The Tigers averaged nearly 79,000 fans per home game in 2004, the sixth-highest average in Clemson history. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in home football attendance each of the six seasons Bowden has been at Clemson.

With Clemson's selection to the 2003 Peach Bowl, Bowden became the first head coach in Clemson and ACC history to take a team to a bowl game in each of his first five seasons. In fact, no coach had ever done so more than twice to open his career at Clemson. That is also something that prominent Tiger predecessors Neely, Howard, Pell, Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson had also appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999, the Gator Bowl in 2000, the 2001 Humanitarian Bowl, and the 2002 Tangerine Bowl prior to its 2004 Peach Bowl invitation.

The 2004 Peach Bowl appearance meant that it was the first time since the senior class of 1991 that Clemson went to a bowl game five straight years. Clemson's red-shirt seniors of 2003 were the first group he recruited, so it is an indication of the firm foundation his first group set. In December of 2003, Bowden cemented his place at Clemson by signing a seven-year contract, which will go through 2010.

The 2003 season was a breakthrough year in many ways. Clemson earned its highest-ever win over a ranked team with a 26-10 victory over #3 Florida State. The Tigers also defeated #24 Virginia in a thrilling overtime game. The 39-3 win over a bowl-bound Georgia Tech team was Clemson's largest victory margin in the series since 1900 as well.

The victory over Florida State, Clemson's first in 12 tries since the Seminoles joined the ACC, was the beginning of a four-game winning streak to close the season. In those four games, Clemson outscored its opponents 156-48, an average score of 39-12. Clemson defeated arch-rival South Carolina in Columbia by a score of 63-17. It was the most points ever scored by a team in the 101-game series and the Tigers' largest victory margin in the series since 1900. It was also Bowden's fourth win in five tries against the Gamecocks.

The season concluded with a 27-14 win over #6 Tennessee, the highest-ranked team Clemson has defeated in a bowl game since 1981, when the Tigers defeated #4 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl to claim the national championship. As a result, Clemson finished the season with nine wins and a #22 final national ranking.

Off the field, Clemson has graduated nearly 75 percent of its scholarship seniors in his six years. In 2003, Clemson ranked #11 in the nation, including second among public institutions, in the NCAA graduation-rate study for scholarship football signees who entered Clemson in 1996. Clemson was first in the nation in graduation rate among African-Americans (100 percent). Nine of Clemson's current seniors are slated to graduate in December. Charlie Whitehurst already has his undergraduate degree.

The 2002 season included victories over bowl teams Georgia Tech and Wake Forest, and a third victory in four years over arch-rival South Carolina. Clemson gained 434 yards of total offense in the 27-20 win over the Gamecocks, the most yards against Lou Holtz's defense all season.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest "two-deep" in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games.

Bowden has a record of 44-29 (.603) as Clemson's head coach and is 62-33 (.653) overall. He ranks 10th among active Division I coaches on a winning-percentage basis. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the wins was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was the highest-ranked road win in 20 years for the program. In 2003 and 2004,

Tommy Bowden

Head Coach

Clemson's schedule strength once again ranked in the top 25 by the Sagarin rating.

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked #3 in the nation in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

Bowden's 2000 Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semifinalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Chad Carson and Kyle Young were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record in 2001 and a record number of ACC Academic Honor Roll recipients. Nineteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team earned their degrees.

The top-six semester GPAs on record have taken place under his 12-semester watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University in 2002 when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I football player to hold that distinction.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Ryan, Lauren, Linda, and Tommy along with dog Lucy

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's seventh-toughest schedule according to the Sagarin rating. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final ACC standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson led the ACC in that category for the second-straight year, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Adams - 15.5, Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league. Clemson also led the ACC in sacks in 2004.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight games in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State's Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy's decision to enter coaching.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Cignetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia in 1977 and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Cignetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State in 1978.

In early 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the spring-practice session. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers' running backs coach in 1980.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked #13 in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

From 1983-86, Bowden served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the quarterbacks coach. He was named coordinator in 1985. It was as a Duke assistant that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to the NFL.

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was there that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, he returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That year, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He remained with Auburn for six seasons, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn had a combined record of 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four AP top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final ranking in 1994.

Born on July 10, 1954 in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (23), a 2004 Clemson graduate and currently a law student at Regent University, and Lauren (20), a junior at Clemson.

ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER

Dear ACC Football Fans,

This is an exciting time to be a part of the Atlantic Coast Conference! With the addition of Boston College on July 1, 2005, the ACC will compete with 12 of the finest academic and athletic institutions in the country.

As we begin this new chapter of Atlantic Coast Conference competition, I hope you not only enjoy the excitement as you cheer on your respective school, but that you will also take advantage of the many exciting destinations that are available in the newly expanded ACC footprint. From the historic Boston Harbor to the beaches of Miami – each of the 12 ACC campuses and surrounding areas have many great attractions to offer.

ACC Football will also take on a new look this year as each conference team will compete in either the Atlantic or Coastal division.

At the conclusion of conference competition, the winner of each division will square-off in the inaugural Dr Pepper ACC Football Championship Game on Saturday, December 3. This historic event is set to kick off at 8:00 p.m. in Jacksonville, Fla., and will be aired nationally on ABC. We hope that all ACC fans will make plans to share in this memorable experience.

The ACC, and its 12 member institutions, has a tradition of tremendous academic and athletic balance. As a conference, we are extremely excited to once again turn the attention to what has made this league so strong throughout its history – our student-athletes, coaches and fans.

We sincerely hope that all the dedicated followers of the ACC will continue to bring meaning to the ACC's promise - A Tradition of Excellence ... Then, Now and Always.

Sincerely,

John D. Swofford
Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner

Clemson's All-Sports Head Coaches

Trevor Adair Men's Soccer

- 132-60-18 at Clemson in 10 years; he has a 166-84-23 record including time as Brown's head coach.
- Led Clemson to the Final Eight of the NCAA Tournament in 2002 and a #7 final ranking in the coaches' poll. It was his fourth Final Eight appearance as Clemson's coach.
- Coached the Tigers to the ACC regular-season title and a first-place finish at the ACC Tournament in 1998. Also led the Tigers to the ACC Tourney crown and an Elite Eight appearance in the NAAs in 2001.
- Led the Tigers to the NCAA quarterfinals in 1998, and had #1 ranking for much of the fall, including the final regular-season poll. As ACC Coach-of-the-Year, he defeated seven top-25 teams in 1998.

Todd Bramble Women's Soccer

- Has led Clemson to the NCAA Tournament and a top-25 finish in each of his first four years as head coach.
- Has a record of 50-28-3 at Clemson and 13 top-25 wins.
- Led Clemson to consecutive road wins over top-five teams Texas and Texas A&M to open the 2004 season.
- Coached Deliah Arrington to the ACC Player-of-the-Year award in 2002, the first Lady Tiger to earn that honor.
- Guided Clemson to a 15-5-1 record and #11 final ranking in 2001, his first as the Clemson's head coach.
- Served as Clemson's top assistant under Men's Head Coach Trevor Adair from 1995-99.

Nancy Harris Women's Tennis

- In her ninth year at Clemson; she has an overall coaching record of 316-117 in 17 seasons.
- Has led Clemson to the NCAA Tourney five of the last six seasons.
- Only women's coach in Clemson history to lead a program to the Final Four of an NCAA Tournament in back-to-back years (2004,05).
- Has led Clemson to three-straight top-20 finishes, including consecutive top-10 finishes.
- Her 2004 team advanced to the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament, the first women's sports program at Clemson to reach the Final Four.
- Won the ACC regular-season and tournament titles in 2004.
- Had a 26-4 overall record and #5 national ranking in 2004, Clemson's highest-ever final national ranking in women's tennis. That team also had seven top-25 victories.

Jolene Hoover Women's Volleyball

- The winningest coach in Clemson volleyball history with an overall record of 252-143 and 106-80 ACC record at Clemson in 12 years.
- Has won at least 20 matches seven times in 12 seasons at Clemson, including the 2004 season when Clemson was one of just three ACC teams with 20 victories.
- Has a 345-174 overall record in 15 seasons as a head coach.
- Led the Tigers to a 31-3 overall record in 1999, which earned Clemson a trip to the NCAA tournament and also the school's first ranking in the top-20.
- Won the ACC regular-season title in 1999 and had a #9 final RPI ranking.
- Guided Clemson to its first-ever ACC Championship in the 1997 season. Clemson defeated undefeated Maryland, ending the Terrapins 29-game winning streak in the process.

Christopher Ip Men's & Women's Swimming & Diving

- His men's and women's teams have posted at least a 3.0 GPA every semester at Clemson.
- Led the men and women to a 23-7-1 combined record in 2003-04, the most wins in school history.
- The 13-2-1 record by the men in 2003-04 was a school record for wins, and the 10 wins by the women were the most since 1988. The men's team also had a school-record 9-0-1 mark on the road.
- Honored as the National Coach-of-the-Year at the junior college level for men's swimming 10 times, including seven years in a row between 1992-98, and women's swimming four times.

Chuck Kries Men's Tennis

- Has led Clemson to three straight 25-win seasons (25 in 2005).
- Had a 26-12 record in 2004. The 26 wins were the most by a Tiger team since 1988. The 2004 team had wins over #6 Duke and #10 Texas Christian in the NCAA Tourney, and advanced to the Elite Eight.
- Enters his 31st season with a 616-379 record at Clemson.
- Winningest men's tennis coach in Clemson and ACC history. His 616 career wins rank in the top-15 nationally.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in attendance 22 straight seasons. In 2004, the streak continued when Clemson averaged nearly 79,000 fans per game.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 227 games in 63 years there and has won over 71 percent of the contests (227-88-7). Thirty-nine times since 1983, a crowd has exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before Head Coach Jess Neely left for Rice after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message.

"Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the YMCA. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing-there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian by a score of 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, the boy was swollen twice his size and was hospitalized.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and in 1960, 5,658 west endzone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large endzone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Running Down The Hill

"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season, less than a year after Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was drawn into World War II.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities in the west endzone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the Hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no Tiger Paw flag, no Tiger Rag played...just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side-straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S.C. Jones, a member of the class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA to Death Valley, South Carolina."

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike Fieldhouse for years. One day, he was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was executive secretary of IPTAY, to "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch...do something with it, but get it out of my office!"

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 3,000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-1960s, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shutouts in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948, McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it "Death Valley" in the 1950s, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the "Valley in 1991.

Running Down The Hill

"The Most Exciting 25 Seconds in College Football"

But getting back to Howard's Rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the Hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jack Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the Hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the Hill that day, Howard told his players: "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west endzone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four games of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the Hill, their combined record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the Hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 307 times heading into the 2005 season.

After final warmups, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west endzone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff, the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east endzone, and debarks to the top of the Hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying Tiger Paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up "Tiger Rag"...the frenzy starts in all sincerity and usually lasts for three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

"The Rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the Hill, the adrenaline flows. It's the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Six-time All-Pro and former Tiger All-American Michael Dean Perry

Marion Hobby

First-Year Tiger Assistant Coach

By Sanford Rogers

A significant number of young Clemson football fans may look at the year 1984 and think of the days of William and Michael Dean Perry as times long past. For the older generation, most recall the early 1980s as the glory days of Clemson football and remember it like it was yesterday.

Defensive Line Coach Marion Hobby is in his first year as a Tiger assistant, but he has strong memories of the great Clemson teams from that era. He now has the goal to make this defensive line unit one that makes Tiger fans, young and old, remember those stellar squads.

Hobby, who joined the Clemson staff in January after six years as a defensive assistant at Mississippi, was a high school junior in 1984 when he received his first recruiting letter. It arrived at his home in Alabama stamped with a Clemson, SC return address.

"As a high school football player, you always remember the first recruiting letter you get in the mail, and that came from Clemson," remembered Hobby. "I knew about the great tradition of defensive players that came from Clemson. Getting that letter meant a lot to me."

When Hobby thinks back to the Clemson teams of that era, the first name that comes to mind is William "Refrigerator" Perry. Perry, a two-time All-American (1983,84) at Clemson and first-round pick of the Chicago Bears in 1985, put up stellar numbers in his days as a Tiger. But the biggest reason (literally!) that Hobby remembers him so vividly is the life-size growth chart of Perry that was sent to recruits in 1984.

"That full-size poster of the 'Fridge' is something I can still remember getting in the mail," said Hobby. "That was something that stood out and made you think about Clemson in a real positive way."

Following a stellar high school career, the Irondale, AL native signed with Tennessee. He had an outstanding career for the Volunteers, starting for three seasons and lettering four times. In 1989, he served as a team captain for a Tennessee squad that posted an 11-1 record, including a victory over Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl. He earned First-Team All-SEC honors as a senior, and was later named to Tennessee's 100-Year Anniversary team.

The experience Hobby enjoyed on the playing field can prove to be a selling point to current and future Tiger defensive linemen.

"I do believe playing at a high level in college can make a difference when coaching a young man," stated Hobby. "I had a great opportunity to play in college and the NFL. I think the experiences can make a difference. When I'm telling one of my players something, they are hearing it from someone that has been in their shoes."

Hobby can also teach current and future Tigers an important lesson when it comes to doing the right things away the field of play. Following his playing days at Tennessee, Hobby was a third-round draft pick of the Minnesota Vikings and went on to play 42 games in the NFL for the New England

Patriots. After a knee injury placed him on the injured reserve during his fourth season, he decided it was time to return to Knoxville and earn his degree. He did just that, earning a B.S. degree from Tennessee in 1995.

"I try to tell my story to our guys," said Hobby. "The question I ask them is 'what would happen if you hurt your knee?' That is exactly what happened to me. I'm so blessed I had worked hard enough (previously) that coming back and finishing what I had started was an option."

Head Coach Tommy Bowden views Hobby's life experiences both on and off the field as an advantage in regards to current and future Clemson squads. "Marion Hobby is an excellent addition to our staff. When he meets with a prospect about what it takes to play in the NFL, he has credibility. He can also stress how important it is to earn a degree. We are thrilled to have him and his family here at Clemson."

Following his graduation from Tennessee, Hobby joined the coaching ranks. In addition to stints at Tennessee-Martin and Louisiana-Lafayette, he served as assistant strength and conditioning coach at Tennessee. In 1999, he joined David Cutcliffe's staff at Mississippi. During his time in Oxford, the Rebels posted a 44-29 record (the exact same record Clemson has had the last six years), including a 10-3 record in the 2003 season, a year that saw a Cotton Bowl victory over Oklahoma State.

When Hobby was researching his next move in the coaching profession, he knew Clemson was a place that had all the ingredients for even greater success. "Clemson has always played a high level of football," said Hobby. "The great tradition that Clemson has is special. Having the opportunity to be on Coach Bowden's staff was a very important factor. Clemson has had some very big wins during his time here. I'm looking forward to being a part of a special time at Clemson."

Assistant Coach Marion Hobby will lead Donnell Clark and the rest of the defensive line in his first year with the Tiger program.

Hobby also knew he would have the opportunity to work with Bowden, a coach he had been aware of for years. "I had known about Tommy Bowden from his days working at Auburn and Alabama, and his time as a head coach at Tulane. Even before that, I knew the Bowden name. His dad has so many ties to Birmingham."

"After being around Coach Bowden the past few months, I realize how fortunate I am to be on his staff. He is a head coach that has never had a losing season. There are not too many coaches in college football that can say that. More important is the kind of man he is away from the field. He is a God-fearing man that cares so much about these players."

After joining the Clemson family in January, the past seven months have been hectic to say the least.

From moving to a new town and coaching new players, a whirlwind would be an accurate adjective.

"Spring practice was a learning experience for both me and the players," admitted Hobby. "In addition to getting to know the players, I was also learning a new defensive system. Once everyone got on the same page, it became very exciting. We accomplished some things in the spring and I am ready to get the season started."

"Clemson is a special place for a family. Both my wife and I are extremely happy to be here. Being from a small town (Irondale, AL) myself, it is a place I feel very comfortable in."

With this evening's game against nationally-ranked Texas A&M finally at hand, it will be difficult to find anyone more excited than Coach Hobby.

"The first game of the year is what every player and coach points towards in the offseason," said Hobby. "A game like Texas A&M - on ABC television, at night in Death Valley, adds even more excitement. What more can you ask for?"

Sanford Rogers worked in the Clemson Sports Information Office from 1989-93 and now works in sales in Greenville, SC.

Clemson University

Clemson University is home to big ideas — ideas that fuel the economy, improve health and safety, and educate students for life.

Big Ideas

The Nation's Brightest

Clemson-ICAR

Teaching America's best scholars in a unique learning environment

Clemson students are among the nation's best. Their SAT scores, freshman retention rates and graduation rates rank among the top public research universities. Clemson students think critically through individual research, collaborative work, laptop innovations, cutting-edge laboratories, studios and other hands-on challenges. Students gain lifelong communication skills through the Pearce Center for Professional Communication and the new Class of 1941 Studio for Student Communication. Clemson's Rutland Center for Ethics helps students manage ethical issues now and in the future.

Spinoff Success

Meeting today's business needs with a century of know-how Clemson's International Center for Automotive Research (Clemson-ICAR®) in Greenville positions South Carolina to become a hub of the nation's automotive and motorsports industry. Its Center for Optical Materials Science and Engineering Technologies' spinoff companies have already generated more than $3 million. Clemson's advanced materials research has a new state-of-the-art facility at the Clemson Research Park in Anderson County, making the Upstate a magnet for related industries. Its Biosystems Research Complex serves as a focal point of biotechnology research, the promising field to create new products and processes in medicine, agriculture and industry.

Solving life-threatening situations with life-altering research

Clemson attracted more than $125 million in externally funded research and sponsored program awards last year. Its scientists are working to stop breast cancer, heal ailing hearts, reverse bone loss, decrease diabetes and address a host of other health issues. Clemson engineers are working to make safer and "smarter" vehicles through automotive and transportation technology. Researchers are aiding soldiers on the battlefield, revolutionizing wireless communication and advancing security.

Mission Statement

The Department of Athletics offers nationally prominent athletic programs. Through a dedicated commitment to educational interests, a competitive athletic program, and integrity in all areas, the student-athletes, coaches, and staff strive to bring credit and recognition to Clemson University.

The mission of the Athletic Department is to sponsor a broad-based athletic program that provides educational and athletic opportunities for young men and women to grow, develop, and serve the interests of Clemson University by complementing and enhancing its diversity and quality of life.

Furthermore, the Athletic Department seeks to be a source of pride for the citizens of the State of South Carolina and to be recognized as a nationally prominent program, through consistently high levels of performance and accomplishment in athletic competitions.

The Athletic Department strives to develop student-athletes academically and athletically with the total commitment of aiding their efforts to graduate from Clemson University and advance to careers that will enable them to be productive members of society.

The Athletic Department will act in an ethical and honest manner, dedicated to compliance with all Federal, State, NCAA, Conference, and University rules and regulations.

Construction on Clemson's WestZone Club is in progress and is scheduled to be completed in 2006. It will create a unique facility that benefits players, coaches, and fans.

Clemson Memorial Stadium, known to Tiger faithful as "Death Valley," seats more than 81,000 loyal fans. It is located on the western side of the Clemson University campus, while the campus is only a two-hour drive from Atlanta, Charlotte, and Columbia. The beaches of coastal South Carolina are only four hours away, while the awe-inspiring sights of the Blue Ridge Mountains can be viewed just a few miles northwest of Clemson.

Radio Network

Clemson Tiger Sports Network

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network supplies Tiger fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show," "Game Day Broadcast," and the "Fifth Quarter Show."

A tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show" is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program. It is produced on the lawn of Littlejohn Coliseum (at the corner) closest to Death Valley.

The program begins three hours prior to kick-off. Bubba Britton, Duane Evans, Don Munson, and Whitney Walters play host to the show. It is the gathering place on gameday. Interviews with former Clemson players, games, display items, and pregame excitement are all part of the program.

The game broadcast is anchored by Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSPA-TV in Spartanburg, SC took over in September, 2003 after the passing of the legendary Jim Phillips, who had been the longtime voice of the Tigers since 1968. Yanity has been a part of the broadcast team since 2001 as the host of the pregame, halftime, and postgame shows, and as the sideline reporter during games.

Yanity has been the sports director at WSPA-TV in Spartanburg the last 15 years. He has also been a sideline analyst for nine years on Carolina Panther preseason football games and has considerable play-by-play experience for Comcast Sports Southeast, covering various college events, including Tiger football and baseball. Yanity is also the voice of Tiger basketball and the host of the Tommy Bowden and Oliver Purnell Television Shows.

Joining Yanity in the booth is former Clemson offensive lineman Will Merritt, who played for the Tigers from 1998-01. He was a starter in both 2000 and 2001 when he was named Second-Team All-ACC.

Merritt worked on the Clemson radio network pregame and postgame shows in 2002. He also provided color commentary on the television tape-delay broadcasts of selected 2002 games. In 2003, he became the color analyst of the gameday broadcasts. The native of Easley, SC is the host of "The Morning Drive," a sports talk show that airs each morning on WCCP (104.9 FM) in Clemson.

Former Clemson Academic All-American line-backer Chad Carson completes the broadcast team as the sideline commentator. Carson served in that capacity for the final two games of 2003 and all of 2004. Carson is fourth in Clemson history in career tackles and was a starter on Tommy Bowden's first three Tiger teams.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast begins with the Tommy Bowden Pregame Show. Bowden meets with Sports Information Director Tim Bourret to provide fans with the latest game lineup and strategy information. Yanity and Merritt also provide a last-minute scene-setter that includes the latest lineup and weather information.

After the game, fans can tune into the "Fifth Quarter Show," hosted by Ralph Patterson and Munson, or attend the show live from the Wild Wing Cafe in downtown Greenville, SC. Interviews with Coach Bowden and Assistant Coaches Rob Spence and Vic Koenning are also included. An added feature includes lockerroom interviews with Clemson's top players that day. A rundown of the game stats and audio highlights are provided.

Fans can follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls" each Thursday evening with Bowden and Don Munson from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM. The shows will air live from Chick-fil-A in Seneca, SC or one of four local Tri-County Ace stores.

The Clemson Tiger Sports Network also produces the Tommy Bowden Television Show, a re-

Important NCAA Terms

Academic Credentials - A prospect should check with his high school guidance office to see if he is taking classes that will meet NCAA eligibility standards. A prospect should do this early - prior to his sophomore year - and keep track of core courses. A prospect will need to take either the ACT or SAT for NCAA certification.

Contact - NCAA rules define a contact as a face-to-face interaction with a prospect and/or his parents off Clemson's campus by a coach. The NCAA sets a contact period for football prospects from late November through the end of January. That is the only time coaches can meet with a prospect away from the Clemson campus.

Core Courses - Courses at a prospect's high school that are considered college preparatory. For the class entering Clemson in 2006, 14 core courses are required, including four in English, two in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and three additional courses. For the class entering Clemson in 2008, 16 core courses are required, including four in English, three in math, two in science, one additional from English, math, or science, two social sciences, and four additional courses. A high school prospect's guidance counselor will have a list of the school's core courses, or you can visit the NCAA Clearinghouse's website at NCAAClearinghouse.net for more information.

Dead Period - Recruiting period when coaches may not have face-to-face contact with prospects on or off Clemson's campus. Coaches may continue to telephone and write a prospect.

Evaluation - In April and May of a prospect's junior year, coaches will come to a prospect's high school, and review his athletic and academic credentials with his coach. In the fall, they may watch a prospect compete one time, but they will not have any contact.

Home Visit - During the contact period, a senior prospect may invite college coaches to his home to meet his parents, and to talk in detail about the football program and academic offerings at any college the prospect is considering.

Receiving Mail - When a prospect is in the ninth and 10th grades, NCAA rules allow Clemson to mail a questionnaire, NCAA educational information, and a summer-camp brochure to a prospect. After September 1 of the prospect's junior year, coaches can provide a prospect with the following: write personalized letters, send a media guide and copies of newspaper articles, and a schedule card. A prospect can receive a football game program when he visits the Clemson University campus.

Recruiting - A term used to describe the process of acquainting a prospect with a college and the coaches of that college, who are striving to learn more about a prospect. Only coaches can recruit - no one else is permitted to persuade a prospect to play sports at a particular college.

Prospect - Any student who has entered the ninth grade. Once a person becomes a prospect, NCAA rules define how college coaches can interact with that prospect.

Telephone - Clemson football coaches can call a prospect once in May of the prospect's junior year. After September 1 of a prospect's senior year, a coach can call a prospect once a week. A prospect can expect unlimited calls during the contact period, before his official visit and once the prospect has signed a National Letter of Intent.

Frequently Asked Questions

Are a prospect's parents invited for an official visit? Yes. NCAA rules allow a school to provide lodging and meals for parents or legal guardians who accompany their child. However, NCAA rules do not allow schools to provide transportation for parents unless they drive with their son.

Can a prospect visit Clemson anytime during his high school career? Yes. A prospect can have his high school coach call Tiger coaches to set up an unofficial visit. He can attend a football game and talk with Tiger coaches, and it does not count as a contact when it is on Clemson's campus. There are times a prospect cannot visit - NCAA rules refer to them as "dead periods," and coaches will not schedule to meet with a prospect during that time period.

Can IPTAY members help recruit me? No. NCAA rules are clear; only Clemson coaches can telephone, contact, and evaluate a prospect. Only college coaches can offer unofficial/official visits.

Is the prospect's high school coach invited for an official visit? NCAA rules are such that high school coaches may not be provided any expenses for official visits.

What is a National Letter of Intent (NLI)? It is a contract; a prospect and his parents sign a promise that the prospect will attend a particular college. In return, that college promises a prospect financial aid. A prospect signs it during his senior year (in February for football). Once the prospect signs it, he cannot be recruited by any other school, and it is a binding contract for the prospect's first year in college at the school that provides the national letter of intent.

What is IPTAY? IPTAY is an organization of Clemson fans. It has over 23,000 members. It generates financial support for the athletic department, and it is the best in the country!

What is an official visit? A prospect can take five official visits, which are expense-paid. Before the visit, the prospect must present a high school transcript and proof of an SAT, ACT, PACT, or PSAT test. Official visit invitations are extended by Tiger coaches only. Official visits may not occur prior to the first day of class of the prospect's senior year in high school.

What is the NCAA Clearinghouse? It is the agency that certifies a prospect's eligibility for NCAA Division I and Division II. A prospect should register with the NCAA Clearinghouse at the end of his junior year in high school. Applications are available in the prospect's guidance office. Cost is $32.

Tiger Strength Training

One of the most important facilities on the Clemson athletic landscape is the strength training facility. Located in the Jervy Athletic Center, it has continued to keep up with one of the most progressive areas in college sports. Head Strength Training Coach Joey Batson, who is in his ninth year as the director, makes sure Clemson student-athletes in all sports are ready for competition physically.

In the summer of 2004, he oversaw a third major facility enhancement. When he came to Clemson, the facility covered 11,000 square feet. It has continued to grow and now covers nearly 15,000 square feet. It is one of the most modern all-around facilities in the country.

The following improvements were made:

- State-of-the-art sound system
- Eight flat-screen plasma televisions
- State-of-the-art ventilation system
- New lighting system
- 10 new multi-functional Clemson power racks
- Mondo-rubber flooring throughout entire weight room
- New orange upholstery on all weightlifting equipment
- New paint on surrounding walls and columns
- Carpeting in entrances and offices
- Front entrance drop ceiling
- Metal overlay for awards displays
- Reconstruction of entryway walls

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place within the facility. When a Tiger student-athlete enters the etched-glass doors, he is greeted by nearly $700,000 worth state-of-the-art equipment.

The eight plasma televisions are positioned throughout the facility and are used for training and instruction, as strength coaches film athletes and work with them on their form.

Clemson has a staff of five full-time strength coaches along with four graduate assistant coaches, and numerous student assistant coaches who ensure a Tiger football player receives as much individual attention as possible. Training programs are position specific, and are designed to meet the specific needs of each student-athlete.

Batson is one of the most highly-regarded strength coaches in the country. In his nine years directing the program, he has coached 11 strength

Locker Room & Player Lounge

When Clemson's football players returned to campus for the second session of summer school of 2004, they reported to a new football locker room and player lounge area within the Jervy Athletic Center. The 4,200-square-foot facility has all the modern conveniences, including a player lounge that includes seven plasma televisions and four computer work stations. The lounge also features murals that document Clemson's greatest players, greatest victories, and prominent former players who have gone on to the NFL.

The following is a rundown of some of the features of Clemson's new lounge and locker room area:

- The locker room area is divided into eight sections, with the lockers corresponding to each player's uniform number. There are 115 lockers in all. Each section of the locker room is highlighted by a logo and picture of historical significance from a bowl game Clemson has played in. Each section also features large interchangeable action photos of recent Clemson players.
- Each player has a new mahogany locker that features a helmet storage area and a storage compartment below a padded seat. There is also a private lock box for personal items.

- Each locker features a large Tiger Paw that introduces the helmet storage area and a personalized name plate.
- The lounge area features seven plasma televisions, complete with split-screen capabilities. All are tied to a central video hub. The television area also contains an Academic Hall of Fame, complete with photographs and accomplishments of Clemson's academic All-Americans and award winners.
- The lounge also features four computer work stations to enhance communications capabilities with professors or advisors at Vickery Hall.
- One wall of the lounge contains a complete list (by team) of every former Tiger who has played in an NFL game. Another wall is a mural of Clemson's All-Century team (chosen in 1996 in conjunction with the 100th year of Clemson football).
- The entrance is dominated by a 30'x9' picture of Death Valley taken at night from Howard's Rock.
- The locker room and lounge areas also feature pictures from Clemson's 13 ACC Championship teams and the 1981 National Championship team.
- The back of the locker room, which has a new exit to the practice field, features a picture of Clemson players running down the Hill and rubbing Howard's Rock. It is the last image seen by each Clemson player as he heads to the practice field.

Vickery Hall

Student-Athlete Enrichment Program

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success not only in the athletic arena, but in the academic, personal growth, career, and community service arenas as well. We provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes during college and after graduation.

Vickery Hall is a $3-million structure that is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other Clemson facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson athletic department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in 1991 and was the first facility in the country constructed solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open all day and into the evening hours to accommodate student-athletes' extended schedules. It is a vital reason that the number of student-athletes on the ACC and Clemson Academic Honor Roll has shown continuous improvement since its opening.

Vickery Hall Values

We believe that you can win ACC and National Championships with men and women who strive for academic and athletic excellence, and who share values of honesty, open communication, fairness, balance in the personal life, integrity, life-long learning, accountability, and commitment.

Vickery Hall Staff Members:

- are honest in their dealings with athletes, coaches, parents and administrators.
- are technically sound in their approach to advising.
- are committed to developing expertise that is recognized nationally.
- are committed to helping each other meet the challenges of motivating student-athletes toward their best academic efforts.
- are known for treating athletes consistently and with concern for their future.
- are chosen for Clemson and demonstrate a commitment to decision-making that is in the best interest of Clemson.
- are committed to retention, graduation, and life-long connection for student-athletes.

Our Student-Athletes:

- are able to communicate with peers and with adults.
- are exposed to the best in academic support.
- understand that they are expected to perform at their highest level in the classroom and on the playing field.
- understand that they are obligated to follow rules, train for championships, and graduate.
- realize that in exchange for their participation in athletics, they receive a college education, a network of support, and life-long relationships.

2006 Clemson Opponents

Clemson will play road games in major markets Boston and Philadelphia in addition to having ACC road trips to Florida State, Virginia Tech, and Wake Forest according to the list of opponents the Tigers will play in 2006.

Clemson only announced the list of opponents and game sites it will play in the 2006 season. The dates of all games will be determined and released in January of 2006.

Clemson and the other 118 Division I teams will play 12 regular-season games in 2006. The Tigers non-conference foes include South Carolina, Louisiana Tech, Temple, and Florida Atlantic. All but the Temple game will be played in Clemson Memorial Stadium.

The Tigers will play ACC home games against Georgia Tech, Maryland, N.C. State, and North Carolina in 2006, while league road games will be at Boston College, Florida State, Virginia Tech, and Wake Forest.

Florida Atlantic, who finished with a 9-3 record under Howard Schnellenberger in 2004, will come to Clemson for the first time ever. Schnellenberger coached Miami (FL) to the 1983 National Championship. Louisiana Tech will travel to Clemson for the second time. Clemson has a 2-0 lifetime record against Louisiana Tech, a 49-24 victory in the Humanitarian Bowl to close the 2001 season, then a 33-13 win at Clemson in the second game of the 2002 season.

Clemson and Temple begin a three-year series in 2005 when the Owls come to Clemson on October 22. The two teams will meet in Philadelphia, PA at Lincoln Financial Field, the home of the Philadelphia Eagles, in 2006.

North Carolina returns to Clemson's schedule for the first time since 2003 when the Tigers won a thrilling 36-28 game in Death Valley. It will be the only game between Clemson and North Carolina between 2004 and 2009.

The Tigers travel to Wake Forest in 2006, the second consecutive year Clemson will play in Winston-Salem, NC. Clemson plays at Wake Forest this year on October 1. When Clemson plays at Boston College in 2006, it will be Clemson's first trip to Boston since the 1983 season, when the Tigers suffered their only loss of the year to a Doug Flutie led Eagle team.

Clemson will not play ACC teams Virginia, Duke, or Miami (FL) in 2006.

Tiger Band

History of the Tiger Band Uniform

Tonight marks the debut of the 50th edition of the band of the Fighting Tigers. Nationally known for its dynamic sound, precision marching, and entertaining shows, Tiger Band is the guardian of the famous Clemson spirit. Over the years, talented instrumentalists and auxiliaries have entertained generations of Tiger football fans at pregame and halftime shows in Death Valley and in stadiums around the country. Additionally, Tiger Band is an integral part of campus pep rallies, First Friday Parades, and University Homecomings. The band also has represented the University in governors' inaugural parades and other special events around the state.

TIGER BAND

SHAKIN' THE SOUTHLAND

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

wore a simulated Tiger-skin apron over their uniforms, in keeping with the British tradition of leopard skins for bass drummers.

The next uniform was also quite distinctive in design. From 1978-85, Tiger Band donned an outfit that included white pith helmets that closely resembled those traditionally worn by Nassau policemen. Additionally, the uniform consisted of a brilliant orange single-breasted coat with brass buttons and a white belt with gold buckle.

The Tiger Band uniform worn between the 1986 and 1992 seasons included an orange jacket with a short, scooped waist accented in white. The look was completed by an orange shako (hat) with white plume and white trousers along with an orange stripe running down the length of the outseam.

The Tiger Band uniform that premiered in the 1993 season was marked by an orange West Point style jacket that recalled Clemson's 20th century military heritage. The Tiger Paw logo was boldly featured on the back.

Tonight, we are pleased to present Tiger Band's newest look (modeled below by 2005 drum majors Suzanne Weaver, Leroy Cooper, and Benjamin Beaver). The new uniform is extremely versatile and distinctively Clemson. It is a uniform of "firsts." For the first time in the band's history, the group is outfitted in purple trousers. For the first time in the history of the organization, the uniform features all school colors of orange, purple, and white. Finally, it is the first uniform to be made of fabric specially dyed "Clemson" orange.

Not only does the back of each jacket display the orange Tiger Paw, the front has two looks. The first option in West Point style, worn for the Amphitheater Concert, Parade, and Pregame Shows, recalls the band's days as a Military Company. The second option, worn during halftime performances, is a mostly purple front with Tiger claw slashes and "Clemson" embroidered across the chest. The orange shako (hat) also bears the Tiger Paw with a white/silver plume. The outfit includes a reversible back-shoulder drape marked "Clemson." The uniform is completed with Tiger Band's logo at the top of the right sleeve. The drum majors' uniform is a traditional white version of the West Point style jacket and is worn with either white or purple trousers.

Tonight's Show

For this evening's halftime performance, Tiger Band will set the field ablaze with a dramatic introduction taken from Igor Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" and a thrilling new arrangement of Billy Joel's "We Didn't Start the Fire." Shifting gears, the band will continue its performance with a Tribute to the U.S. Military that will include a medley of Armed Forces Songs. Finally, Tiger Band will conclude its show with Morton Gould's dramatic "American Salute: When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

You can take home the sounds of Tiger Band by purchasing the group's CD, "We're An American Band." The CD features more than 30 tracks of favorites from previous football seasons. It includes Sock It To 'Em, Tiger Rag, the Clemson Alma Mater, and a special emphasis on patriotic songs. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15. To order by mail, send a check for $17 payable to CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

Written and compiled by Assistant Director of Bands Reginald M. Houze, with contributions from Susan Hiott, Dr. John H. Butler, and Dr. Mark Spede.

Before Tiger Band

For over fifty years, Clemson cadets with musical talent were assigned to a separate Band Company in the College's military organization. The Military Band, sometimes called the Parade Band, first marched and played at drill and military ceremonies. Eventually, they began performing for football games, parades, and fairs.

All Dressed Up

As part of our Golden Jubilee, Tiger Band is thrilled to debut its seventh uniform during tonight's battle against Texas A&M, another school with a proud military heritage. The history of Tiger Band's uniform began on the heels of the college's military organization. The first outfit (1955-56) was the traditional gray Clemson cadet uniform jacket with white duck trousers.

The 1957 uniform consisted of 11 pieces. The basic outfit featured a short-waisted gray jacket, with two rows of globular brass buttons to which was attached a reversible chest overlay. One side featured a metallic gold-cloth "C" on a background of purple, and the other had large purple bands in the shape of an "X." Also attached to the jacket was a short purple cape lined with gold cloth. The trousers were gray with purple piping. The hat was a standard shako in gray with purple trim and a fountain plume of duck feathers. The uniform also featured a full-length black opera cloak with gold lining.

The next costume (1963-77) was based on the traditional British guardsman's uniform, complete with black fur busby hat. The coat was a brilliant orange trimmed simply in black. A rich purple shoulder sash with 15" tassels completed the Clemson school-colors motif. The bass drummers

WestZone

The approximately $54 million WestZone initiative is underway, and soon the west end of Clemson Memorial Stadium will be transformed into a unique campus landmark. As the new "front door" to Death Valley, the WestZone will welcome fans, student-athletes, coaches and friends of Clemson University in an unprecedented fashion.

The WestZone Club, featuring excellent premium seating, will eventually cater to approximately 1,000 Clemson fans starting with the 2006 season. Boasting stylish amenities, comfortable seats and upscale cuisine, the WestZone Club combines indoor elegance and outdoor excitement. Private elevators will take patrons to the exclusive club, which includes a buffet dining area, along with lounge areas overlooking the Clemson campus and Lake Hartwell.

The Westzone initiative also will include great benefits to future Clemson Tiger gridders, including new locker rooms, team lounge areas, media interview rooms, training room, weight room, team and position meeting rooms and coaches offices. The overall project also will include the One Clemson Center, which will feature its history and traditions of Clemson University from an athletic, military and education standpoint.

Construction on the project began after the 2004 season and will continue during the 2005 season. Clemson will play its full 2005 home schedule, as the general seating area will be functional by the opener on September 3 with Texas A&M.

Clemson in Overtime

Tigers Enter the 2005 Season With a National-Best 5-0 Overtime Record

Clemson has a perfect 5-0 record in overtime games since the rule was adopted for Division I college football in 1996. Clemson is the only school in Division I with a perfect 5-0 record, and the five victories are tied for fifth most in college football history. Clemson has had outstanding defense in overtimes in the five victories, allowing just nine combined points on three field goals. In fact, the opposition has recorded just one first down (by Miami (FL) in 2004) in the six overtime periods.

Clemson 29, Duke 20

Clemson, SC • November 8, 1997

Rahim Abdullah intercepted a Bobby Campbell pass and raced 63 yards for a touchdown to give Clemson a rare nine-point overtime victory. Abdullah had a career-high 11 tackles, including a sack, in the victory. Clemson had scored a field goal on its possession, then the defensive score caused the unusual margin.

Clemson 47, Georgia Tech 44

Atlanta, GA • September 29, 2001

Woodrow Dantzler scored on an 11-yard run on the last play of overtime to give Clemson a three-point win at Bobby Dodd Stadium. The play finished quite a day for Dantzler, who ran for 164 yards and two scores, and threw for 254 yards and two touchdowns. Ninth-ranked Georgia Tech had scored a field goal on its overtime possession. It was Clemson's highest-ranked road win in 20 seasons.

Clemson 30, Virginia 27

Clemson, SC • October 11, 2003

Charlie Whitehurst completed a four-yard fade-pattern pass to Kevin Youngblood on the final play of overtime to give Clemson a three-point win over #24 Virginia at Death Valley. Virginia had scored a field goal on its possession. The Cavaliers had defeated Clemson on a similar pass play to Billy McMullen in the same endzone two years earlier.

Clemson 37, Wake Forest 30

Clemson, SC • September 4, 2004

Charlie Whitehurst threw an 11-yard touchdown pass in the second overtime, then the defense held Wake Forest without a first down on four consecutive plays to clinch the only double overtime victory in Clemson history. The two teams had traded field goals in the first extra session.

Clemson 24, Miami (FL) 17

Miami, FL • November 6, 2004

Reggie Merriweather scored his third touchdown of the game on Clemson's overtime possession, then the Tigers held Miami to clinch the win in the Orange Bowl. Miami had second-and-goal from the five, but Brock Berlin threw three straight incomplete passes to end the game.

Woodrow Dantzler closed a 418-yard afternoon at Georgia Tech with an 11-yard, game-winning touchdown run.

Kyle Browning's 11-yard reception helped end the longest game in Clemson history.

Kevin Youngblood's catch gave the Tigers a walkoff overtime win over Virginia in 2003.

Where Are They Now?

Ed Glenn, Charles Hafley, Frank Magwood

By Kyle Tucker

Ed Glenn 1993-94

A tight end from Greenville, SC, Ed Glenn played in every game for Clemson from 1993-94 with six starts. After the 1994 season, he was named a First-Team CFA/Hitachi Academic All-American, and was also the recipient of the Jim Tatum Award as the top student-athlete among ACC football players.

After graduating from Clemson, Glenn spent four years at Vanderbilt University in medical school. He stayed in Nashville, TN for the next five years, as he did his residency. During the last year, Glenn was in Chicago, IL, performing a one-year fellowship at the Rush University Medical Center.

Currently, Glenn is back in Nashville with the Tennessee Orthopedic Alliance and is an orthopedic surgeon, specializing in sports medicine.

During his time at Vanderbilt, Glenn and Dr. Eric McCarty were given $240,000 from NFL Charities to study knee injuries and cartilage implementation. The main purpose of their study was to see how cartilage from a donor compares to cartilage that is from the patient.

As Glenn explained, "The ultimate application to humans would be to take cartilage from someone else and to implant it into a person's joint affected by arthritis. That would be better than having to take cartilage from that person's own knee and transfer it to the defect."

In the 1994 game at Virginia, Glenn made his first career catch. It was the first catch by a Tiger tight end that season, and only the ninth catch by a Clemson tight end in 24 games dating back to 1992. He cites that as one of his more memorable moments on the playing field.

"The catch at Virginia my senior year sticks out, not because it was a great catch or went for big yardage, but just because it was my first catch, and our tight ends did not catch many passes back then."

Frank Magwood, a current BMW employee in Spartanburg, SC, had a diving 42-yard reception in the 1982 Orange Bowl victory.

Glenn still keeps in touch with many of his former teammates and says he is still very close with many of them. "Louis Solomon, who played quarterback, is a former teammate that is still a good friend of mine. My three former roommates, punter Matt Bulman, offensive lineman Rion Burley, and center Trevor Putnam, are all guys that I like to stay in touch with."

It is no surprise Glenn has had success in his profession after leaving Clemson. The former Wade Hampton High star posted a perfect 4.0 grade point average in biochemistry for the 1993-94 academic year, and was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll three times.

Charles Hafley 1998-01

Charles Hafley played strong safety for the Tigers from 1998-01, lettering four times. He started 25 games in his career, including every game in 2000 and 2001, and finished with the third-most tackles in a career by a Tiger defensive back in school history. In the 2001 Maryland game, Hafley totaled 20 tackles, which set the Clemson single-game record for tackles in a game by a defensive back. He also intercepted eight passes in his career, and returned one 27 yards for a touchdown against Missouri in a 62-9 win in 2000.

After leaving Clemson, Hafley spent two years as the offensive coordinator at Pompano Beach High School. Upon hearing of the opening at head coach at Fort Lauderdale High, Hafley decided to interview for the vacancy.

"I was an offensive coordinator for two years and felt that I was ready," recalled Hafley. "I went for the job, and as they say, the rest is history."

The 2005 season will be Hafley's first year as the head coach at Fort Lauderdale High, and for the former Tiger safety, coaching seemed like an easy choice. "Every kid dreams to play pro football, but I realized that wasn't going to be the road I would take. Growing up in a tough neighborhood, I wanted to come back home, give back to my community, and help young people."

When reflecting on his days at Clemson, Hafley says the memories are fond and Clemson is a place he will always hold close to his heart. "The thing that stands out about Clemson above all else is the family atmosphere we have, and how everything we did was done in a family environment. I can't wait to get back for Homecoming."

Hafley also cited the friendships he formed with other teammates and still talks to many of them regularly. "On a daily basis, I usually talk to Cedric Johnson, William Henry, Khaleed Vaughn, Dextra Polite (a coach at Colquitt County (GA) High), and Jamaal Fudge, who I still like to think I have an impact on," laughed Hafley.

Along with Jeff Scott, son of current Tiger Offensive Line Coach Brad Scott, Hafley is one of two former Tigers who are high school head coaches still in their 20s.

Frank Magwood 1980-82

A member of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team, Frank Magwood lettered three years as a wide receiver for the Tigers. He started five games during the championship season, catching 17 passes for 345 yards and a touchdown, including a tremendous diving catch for 42 yards in the Orange Bowl win over Nebraska. Clemson was 11-1-1 in games in which Magwood started in his career. In 1982, he was named AP All-ACC, and was a 12th-round draft pick of the New York Giants in the 1983 NFL draft.

When Boston College comes to Clemson on September 24, it will bring back fond memories for the 1983 Clemson grad. In 1982, Magwood had six receptions for 103 yards in the 17-17 tie with Doug Flutie and the Eagles. It was the only 100-yard game of his career and the only 100-yard receiving game by a Tiger in 1982.

Magwood currently resides in Simpsonville, SC and works for the BMW Company in Spartanburg. When his playing days were over, he returned to Greenville, SC and worked for Synoco for 12 years, before making the move to his current job.

"After spending 12 years with Synoco, I felt I needed a change," said Magwood. "I interviewed with the BMW Manufacturing Company, and I've now been with them for six years."

Reflecting on his days as a Tiger, Magwood remembers the 1981 season vividly, as well as the friendships he made. "Winning the Orange Bowl and the national title sticks out in my mind, as well as the relationships you form with your teammates. Just to have the opportunity to be a student-athlete at Clemson was a great privilege for me."

Magwood still talks regularly with quarterback Homer Jordan, defensive back Terry Kinard, and cornerback Tyrone Davis. Magwood and his three former teammates will celebrate the 25th anniversary of their National Championship team in 2006.

Charles Hafley, the current head coach at Fort Lauderdale (FL) High School, totaled 20 tackles in the 2001 Maryland game, a Clemson record for a defensive back.

Kyle Tucker, a second-year graduate student from Cartersville, GA, is a graduate assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Tiger Soccer

2005 Season Preview

By Sam Blackman

Clemson Soccer is undergoing many changes.

With the loss of five starters and six letterwinners from the 2004 season, along with players recovering from injuries, the Tigers have a few holes to fill in preparation for the new season.

However, with the addition of a great recruiting class and the maturation of the returning players, Head Coach Trevor Adair is very optimistic about the 2005 season. Adair believes that he has a strong roster of talented players who will bring new energy to the program. With an excellent recruiting class and a solid core of returnees, Adair also believes that this year's team will be a deep and talented squad.

With just 11 letterwinners and six starters returning from 2004, one might feel this is a rebuilding year for the Tiger soccer program. However, Adair does not like the term "rebuilding," as he thinks of the word as an excuse. He believes that this team will be a surprise in the ACC and the national scene.

"We will be much better than last year," said Adair, who is entering his 11th season at Clemson. "We addressed many issues in our recruiting and took care of the holes that were there due to the loss of five starters.

"We will have better depth this season compared to last year. We were definitely hurt with the loss of Charlie Roberts and Ryan Roushanel last year when they were injured, because we were counting on them for a high percentage of our goal scoring.

"I think our depth issue will be put to rest with our recruiting class. On paper, this is one of two best recruiting classes we have had since I have been at Clemson. We have size, speed, and leadership coming into Clemson this fall."

Trevor Adair, in his 11th year at the helm of the Tiger program, will count on senior Justin Moore (above) to provide leadership in the midfield.

Another issue that Adair was concerned about after the 2004 season was finishing games. With so many close losses last year, Adair is confident that incoming players will help with this problem. The recruiting class of eight players includes five transfers who will help with the depth and experience issue, allowing Clemson to be fresh at the conclusion of games.

"Another big key this year is going to be how quickly our team becomes a unit. How quickly will they gel and develop chemistry? It is going to be different this year when we have people coming off the bench. We aren't going to lose the intensity or level of play.

"Last year, we had to go through the season using smoke and mirrors. We had injuries to key players, and as a result, we had to move people around, and that created more holes. I know this sounds like excuses, and I don't like excuses, but the fact remains, we simply ran out of players last year and had to rely on some freshmen who could have used a year's experience."

Clemson has two-year starter and junior Phil Marfuggi returning in goal. Last season, he gave up 15 goals and had a 1.35 goal allowed average, as he finished the year with 31 saves.

"Marfuggi has matured with experience, and we need him to have a complete, consistent year. He should be able to win the position and keep it. He works hard and has great ability. He needs to eliminate mistakes, and again, this will come with experience. He needs to step forward his junior year and provide leadership to the defense."

Sophomore Jarrett Lewis and freshman Scott Rosman will also vie for playing time in goal. "Jarrett has made a lot of improvement despite sustaining some major injuries. Jarrett will push Phil and hopefully get some games to prove how far he has come."

Clemson has many versatile players and many different possible combinations in the back going into 2005. "We have a lot to choose from and a lot of depth, and the ability to move some guys around," said Adair. "We have eight players who could play right away."

Clemson has three starters returning in the back, as senior Justin Moore, sophomore Nathan Sturgis, and junior Havird Usry all return. Moore will most likely be moved to the midfield.

Moore is the Tigers' leading returning scorer with three goals and four assists for 10 points. Sturgis started 17 matches and finished the year with three goals, including two that were game-winners. Usry started 10 matches, and had one goal and one assist for three points.

Sturgis played for the national team, and according to Adair, he will be an "absolute key" player for the Tigers. "Sturgis can come forward, and distribute and score goals."

Red-shirt freshman Jeff Routh, who saw substantial time in the spring, will be pushing for a starting role in the center of defense.

Alan O'Hara, David Newton, and Bryson Moore along with junior Andrew Bradum are newcomers who could challenge for playing time in the back. "O'Hara adds leadership and size in the back, as does David Newton. Both of them, along with Jeff Routh, are outstanding in the air, both in defense and attack."

Clemson will have plenty of depth in the midfield with three starters returning in senior Brad Gibson, sophomore Mark Buchholz, and Moore. Gibson had two assists last year and started all 18 matches. He has played in 61 career matches in all. Buchholz was a starter for the Tigers last season (16 starts in 18 matches) and finished with one goal.

"Gibson, Moore, and Buchholz are mainstays in the midfield. With these players returning, along with juniors Micah Usry and Dane Richards coming in, we will have plenty of depth. We also have junior Hector Quintanar returning this season. Moore will be an attacking midfield player and will be a great linking player for us."

Also returning to the midfield are lettermen Danny Poe, Randy Albright, and Greg Burana. "Greg proved in the spring that he can also score goals."

Roberts, a senior, and Quintanar are the two returnees at the forward positions. Quintanar started seven matches in 2004, and had one goal and two assists for four points. Roberts started four matches and finished with one goal. His season was shortened due to an injury.

Richards will also play as a forward. "He has tremendous speed and goal-scoring ability. He can really put the ball away in the final third."

Another player returning after red-shirting his freshman season is Roushanel, the leading goal scorer in the spring. "Roushanel will help us score goals and dominate in the air with his strength and size, and that is what we have been lacking. He has an uncanny knack of finding the back of the net. We could have used him dearly last year.

"Roberts is also good in the air and with his back to the goal. Richards will help us with his athleticism and goal-scoring ability as well. I feel as though we have speed, pace, and experience in this area."

Sam Blackman is Clemson's Associate Sports Information Director and is in his 19th year at Clemson.

Clemson Volleyball

2005 Season Preview

By Philip Sikes

Clemson volleyball reached the 20-win plateau in 2004 for the first time in six years, and the Tigers were one of just three ACC teams to reach the 20-win mark. Along the way, Clemson upset top-seeded Georgia Tech in the quarterfinals of the ACC Tournament. The Yellow Jackets were previously unbeaten in 16 regular-season conference matches. This season, Clemson will look to build on its performance, as the addition of Boston College gives the conference 12 teams.

To make the next step, Clemson must do so without the services of decorated 2004 seniors Lori Ashton and Leslie Finn. The duo ended their careers atop multiple categories in the Tiger recordbook. Head Coach Jolene Hoover, in her 13th season at Clemson, believes the experience of eight returning letterwinners and a different team makeup will pay dividends in 2005.

"Our team looks a little different, and that happens when you graduate players who have been on the court four years," Hoover said. "This year, we will be very balanced in terms of our offense, which hasn't always been the case in the past few years."

The ACC will not hold a season-ending volleyball tourney for the first time since 1979, meaning each school will play a double, round-robin format in league play. The Tigers will play 22 ACC matches, compared to just eight out of conference. Clemson will travel to Auburn, AL to participate in the Mizuno/Auburn Challenge along with Alabama A&M, Auburn, and Furman. The Tigers will also play non-conference matches against Georgia and South Carolina.

"With the scheduling changes for 2005, it will take more focus each weekend because each match will be so important in the conference standings," Hoover said. "I really believe that winning at home will be more crucial than ever before. It is going to be new for all of us in the league."

The Tigers return two players in the middle, Meghan Steiner and Laura Boozer, and have added freshmen Amber Campbell and Danielle Hepburn. The group has just 58 games of college experience, all by Steiner, a sophomore from Crystal Lake, IL.

Steiner is the leading returning hitter on the team, as she hit .254 as a freshman. She recorded 10 kills and hit .333 in an early upset of Northern Iowa. Her best all-around effort came at home against Virginia. She had eight kills and hit .333 with two block assists in a win over the Cavaliers.

Boozer, whose brother Thomas was a relief pitcher for the Tiger baseball team from 1999-02 and father played football at Clemson in the early 1970s, sat out the 2004 season as a red-shirt. At 6'2", she possesses good size for the middle position.

A native of Charleston, SC, Campbell was a three-sport star in high school and is regarded as one of the top athletes on the team. Campbell hit .325 with an average of 2.5 blocks per game as a senior at West Ashley High School.

Hepburn is a native of Miami, FL, and was rated the #51 prospect nationally by PrepVolleyball.com in the fall of 2004. She also lettered in three sports during high school, including once in track & field and four times in basketball. Hepburn was also the 2003-04 Miami Herald Player-of-the-Year.

One of Clemson's priorities for 2005 will be replacing the school's single-season and career kills leader (Finn). Returning on the outside after a spectacular freshman season will be Sunrise, FL native Brittany Ross. She was named to the ACC's All-Freshman team in 2004 after posting 472 kills, a Clemson rookie record. She had 25 kills and hit a season-high .489 in the Tigers' upset win over Georgia Tech in the ACC Tournament.

The leading candidate to fill the void left by Finn is freshman Jeannette Abbott, a highly-regarded prospect from Downers Grove, IL. The #94 national prospect by PrepVolleyball.com last fall, Abbott was the Chicago Tribune Player-of-the-Year and a high school All-American. She gives the Tigers a potentially dangerous duo on the outside.

Clemson's top-two, right-side hitters also happen to be the captains in 2005. Leslie Mansfield and Meghan Stanton are team leaders who are expected to make major contributions this season.

Stanton, the team's only senior, has played in 188 career games. She has 111 kills and 329 digs in her three-year stint with the Tigers. In 2004, she appeared in 36 games, and totaled 36 kills and 14 service aces. The Kildeer, IL native also has the ability to play outside.

Mansfield, a sophomore from Saint Charles, IL, returns after a stellar freshman season. She was Clemson's most versatile performer during the 2004 campaign, as she totaled 95 kills, 69 assists, 44 service aces, 271 digs, and 62 total blocks. She set a freshman record with eight aces in just her fourth collegiate match against The Citadel.

Sophomore Courtney Lawrence returns at the setter position. She played in 119 games and ranked first on the team with 864 assists. That equates to an average of 7.26 assists per game, a figure most likely to increase this season.

Dawn Robertson also returns at the setter position. She totaled 247 assists as a freshman in 2003 before moving to the backcourt in 2004. She also could play a role in the backcourt in 2005. She appeared in 13 games in 2004. Robertson along with Lawrence are natives of California.

The Tigers return their top backcourt performers from the 2004 season, while adding a trio of newcomers who will have a chance to contribute. Returning at the libero position is Anna Vallinch, a transfer from Nebraska-Kearney who will be in her second season with the program. The junior from Papillion, NE set the single-season school record for digs (620) in her first year at Clemson. Her average of 5.04 digs per game also is a school record. Vallinch established a Jervy Gym record with 35 digs in a five-game thriller versus North Carolina.

Joining Vallinch in the backcourt will be defensive specialist Sue Eckman, a sophomore from Saint Charles, IL. She posted 215 digs in her first year with the program, with a season-high 16 versus North Carolina in the semifinals of the ACC Tournament. Eckman also has one of the top serves on the team, as she had 37 aces as a freshman in 2004.

A trio of newcomers will have a chance to be in the mix at defensive specialist. Katie Bridges, a 5'9" native of nearby Pickens, SC, was the state's AAA Player-of-the-Year as a senior in 2004. Emilie Crigler comes to Clemson after lettering in three sports at East Henderson High in Flat Rock, NC. Also joining the team this season is sophomore Mary Kate Peer, who rowed at Clemson during the 2004-05 season with the second novice 8+ crew.

ACC Joins Eight Other Conferences in Implementing Its Use in 2005

By Tim Bourret

The 1985 Clemson football season was Danny Ford's most frustrating in his 11 seasons as head coach. The Tigers lost six games that year, the most losses he suffered in a season as Clemson's head coach. Four of those six losses were by a touchdown or less, including back-to-back games in November when one play inside the last two minutes did not go Clemson's way from an officiating standpoint, leading to winning scores by the opposition within the last 10 seconds of the game.

North Carolina downed the Tigers 21-20 in Chapel Hill in the ninth game of the season, a loss that ended a four-game Clemson winning streak. With less than two minutes left and the Tar Heels faced with a third-and-nine from the Clemson 36, quarterback Jonathan Hall completed a pass near the Tiger sideline to Earl Winfield. The Jefferson Pilot television crew replayed the catch and it certainly looked as if the North Carolina receiver was out of bounds when he made the reception at the Tiger 24. Five plays later and with just three seconds left in the game, William Humes scored on a one-yard leap, and North Carolina won the game by a single point.

The very next week, Clemson had eventual ACC Champion Maryland on the ropes, leading 31-24 with under two minutes left at Death Valley. Maryland had a third-and-goal from the Clemson two with 1:25 left. Maryland Head Coach Bobby Ross was late getting the play to the huddle, and there was confusion within the Maryland offense.

The 25-second clock clicked down and hit zero. CBS replays showed it hit zero for a full two seconds before the Terrapins' Stan Gelbaugh took the snap and lobbed a touchdown pass to tight end Ferrell Edmonds for the tying score. The officials failed to notice that the play clock had run out. Maryland got the ball back and went on to kick a field goal with 10 seconds left, and claimed a 34-31 win.

If the aforementioned occurrences took place in 2005, Clemson might end up on the positive end of the scoreboard. The North Carolina case listed above is certainly reviewable under the ACC's new instant replay system, while the Maryland situation was under debate, as league officials huddled to review possible situations this season in August.

But certainly, had those plays been reversed Clemson, would have ended the season with a 6-1 conference record and the ACC title. An 8-3 overall record probably would have had the Tigers in the Gator Bowl instead of the Independence Bowl. One play can make a difference, and thus the ACC and eight other conferences have brought replay to the college game this year.

The Big Ten conference started the use of replay last season, and it was deemed a success. It did not prove to be a distraction in terms of tempo of the game. For the 28 games it was used in the Big Ten in 2004, there were just 43 calls reviewed and 21 were overturned.

The NFL has used the system twice in its history, 1986-91 and 1999-04. The league has agreed to continue its use through 2008.

Overall, most coaches applaud the use of replay. "I talked with a number of Big Ten coaches in the offseason and they liked it," said Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "It did not seem to take a long time and there weren't that many plays reviewed. But, one play can make a difference. You will find that coaches basically want to get the play right and favor the use of replay."

NFL Replay History

From 1986-91, a limited system of instant replay was used on a year-by-year basis. Replay returned to the NFL for the 1999 regular season and has been in use every year since. The NFL has announced it will continue to use replay through at the least the 2008 season.

From 1986-91, there were 2,967 plays reviewed and 376 were reversed. From 1999-04, there were 1,532 plays reviewed with 478 reversed. The difference in the number of plays reviewed relates to the NFL rule (starting in 1999) that states that a coach would lose a timeout if his challenge was not upheld. NFL coaches do not want to waste those timeouts. At the college level, the replay official will stop the game, not a coach or an official on the field.

According to the stats below, for the 12 years the NFL has used replay, calls have been reversed 19 percent of the time. There have been an average of 1.58 reviews per game, but just 1.01 reviews per game over the last six years.

ACC's Instant Replay at a Glance

Objective: To allow for specific types of officiating calls to be immediately reviewed and corrected.

Principles: There must be indisputable video evidence for any on the field call to be changed. In addition, a review must have a direct, competitive effect on the game, such as a change of possession, scoring play, etc. The ACC will use instant replay for all conference games. It is also the intent to use instant replay for all non-conference home games, pending prior approval by the visiting team.

ACC-NFL Replay Differences

Statement	ACC	NFL
Coaches and officials on the field may ask for a review	No	Yes
A review can only be triggered by the technical advisor in the press box	Yes	No
There is a limit to the number of plays that can be reviewed	No	Yes
Timeouts may be charged to teams based on the outcome of the review	No	Yes
The status of the game clock can be reviewed	Yes	No

Reviewable Plays

- Plays governed by sideline, goal line, and end line:
 - Scoring plays, including a runner breaking the plane of the goal line
 - Pass complete/incomplete/intercepted at the sideline, goal line, and end line
 - Runner/receiver is on or out of bounds
 - Recovery of loose ball in bounds
- Passing plays:
 - Pass ruled complete/incomplete/intercepted in the field of play and endzones
 - Touching of a forward pass by an ineligible receiver
 - Touching of a forward pass by a defensive player
 - Quarterback (passer) forward pass or fumble (If ruled incomplete, the play is finalized)
 - Illegal forward pass or illegal handing beyond the line of scrimmage
 - Illegal forward pass or illegal handing after change of possession
 - Forward or backward pass thrown from behind the line of scrimmage
- Other detectable infractions:
 - Runner ruled not down
 - Forward progress errors with respect to first down
 - Touching of a kick
 - Number of players on the field
 - Clock adjustments
 - Fourth-down try fumble plays
- Non-reviewable plays:
 - Holding
 - Offsides/encroachment
 - Pass interference
 - Person fouls (late hits)
 - Illegal blocks
 - Illegal formations
 - Facemask penalties
 - Taunting/excessive celebrations
 - False starts
 - Roughing the passer/kicker
 - Fighting participants

Tim Bourret is Clemson's Sports Information Director and is in his 28th year at Clemson.

Tommy Bowden and the other 11 ACC head coaches favor the use of instant replay, which will be used for the first time in 2005.

The Last Word

Major Rudolf Anderson, Jr.

By Tim Bourret

When the athletic department hierarchy examined the 2005 football schedule to designate special days for each home game, there was one obvious choice for Military Appreciation Day. During World War II, only one school provided more Army officers to the United States war effort than Clemson. That school was Texas A&M.

Both schools obviously have a strong military tradition, one we hold with pride, especially in light of the current international climate. Many young fans at tonight's game do not realize that Clemson was a military school until 1955. A total of 1,549 Clemson students saw service during World War I, and 6,475 Clemson students served our country in World War II.

There are many stories of heroism by Clemson graduates in previous wars, but one stands out to me, because his act of bravery took place in my lifetime. I became aware of the story of Major Rudolf Anderson, Jr. from Jane Robelot De Carvalho, Clemson class of 1982, who is a relative of Anderson. His actions did not take place during a war, but his actions averted war, one that might have been the most devastating war in the history of mankind.

Anderson was born and raised in Greenville, SC and attended Greenville High. He was an outstanding athlete in high school, but never played a varsity sport at Clemson.

"Rudy had terrific speed," recalled Dan Foster, one of the most distinguished sports writers in the nation over the last 50 years with The Greenville News. Foster and Anderson were friends during their high school years and played on the same church softball team.

"I used to tell our teammates that we really only needed two outfielders. We had Rudy in center and just needed one other ordinary fielder.

"He was an outstanding young man. When I look back at what he did as a pilot for this country, it didn't surprise me. You could see the those qualities in his youth."

Anderson entered Clemson in the fall of 1944, where he majored in textiles and served in the Air Force ROTC. By the end of his college career, he had earned a position in Clemson's elite Senior Platoon. After he graduated from Clemson in 1948, he worked in textiles for a short time before joining the Air Force in 1951. He served in the Korean War, flying F-86 Saber jets and earned two Distinguished Flying Cross citations during his service.

Anderson's heroic actions helped prevent a potential nuclear war with the Soviet Union.

In 1955, he began training as a pilot for the new U-2 spy planes, aircraft that could be used for secret surveillance of military sites in other countries. Only the top pilots in the Air Force would be selected to fly the U-2.

Seven years later, Fidel Castro assumed power in Cuba and began an alliance with the Soviet Union, a dangerous association for the United States, since Cuba is just 90 miles off United States soil. The U.S. failed to overthrow Castro at the Bay of Pigs in 1961, so Castro announced he would take defensive measures against the United States through his Soviet allies.

Cuba began to build up its armaments, leading President John F. Kennedy to ordered reconnaissance flights over Cuba in October of 1962. Photographs needed to be taken from those missions to determine what kind of weapons existed in Cuba and what kind of threat existed to the United States.

Kennedy contacted the Air Force and asked for its top two U-2 pilots. Anderson, Clemson class of 1948, was one of the two pilots selected.

Anderson flew numerous missions between October 15 and October 27 of 1962. His film proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that Soviet medium-range ballistic missiles (MRBMs) were being housed in hold tents in at least three sites in Cuba. Kennedy learned of the photos on October 16, and a chain of events began that could have changed the world.

On October 22, the seventh day of the Cuban Missile Crisis, Kennedy met with Congress and then addressed the American people over television, telling the world about the Soviet missile sites in Cuba. He called upon Soviet President Nikita Khrushchev to withdraw the weapons from Cuba. He added that any missile launched from Cuba against any country in the Western Hemisphere would be regarded as an attack by the Soviet Union, "requiring full retaliatory response upon the Soviet Union."

Anderson continued to take pictures over Cuba. On Saturday, October 27, war was imminent. The mission was almost scratched, but Anderson felt a sense of duty and argued that the mission should continue.

But, he never returned, as he was shot down and killed by a SAM (surface-to-air missile). As history would prove, Anderson, at age 35 and the father of two sons and a daughter on the way, was the only casualty of the Cuban Missile Crisis.

"Bobby Kennedy said Anderson's death so angered his brother that the president sent his strongest-ever message to Khrushchev, who then agreed to have the missiles removed from Cuba," said Foster in a 40th-anniversary piece he wrote on Anderson for The Greenville News on October 27, 2002.

Khrushchev went on Radio Moscow on October 28, the day after Anderson was shot down, to announce he was removing the missiles from Cuba.

The world could now breathe again.

On that same day, October 28, President Kennedy wrote a letter to Anderson's wife. A movie about the Cuban Missile Crisis, entitled "Thirteen Days," concludes with President Kennedy writing that letter.

After Anderson's body was returned from Cuba to Washington, President Kennedy had it flown to Donaldson Air Force base in Greenville on Air Force One for the funeral. Those of you who live in Greenville may have noticed an F-86 jet fighter at Cleveland Park near McDaniel Avenue. That plane serves as a memorial to Anderson.

Liz Newell of Clemson World, Clemson's alumni magazine, authored a piece on Anderson for the publication in 2000. She put Anderson's contribution to Clemson's military heritage, his contribution to the world for that matter, in perspective.

"If you were born by the fall of 1962, you can say with certainty that Clemson alumnus Rudy Anderson risked his life and lost it after a succession of missions that saved our homeland from a nuclear attack. And, if you were born after those 13 days in October 1962 when the United States government faced down the Soviet Union in what became known as the Cuban Missile Crisis, your debt to Anderson is no less great."

Tim Bourret is Clemson's Sports Information Director and is in his 28th year at Clemson.

Air Force Cross Citation

Major Rudolf Anderson, Jr., Clemson graduate of the class of 1948 and native of Greenville, SC, was the first recipient of the Air Force Cross, the highest honor presented by the U.S. Air Force. Below is the text of the official citation presented to Anderson's family.

Air Force Cross Citation

"The Air Force Cross is presented to Rudolf Anderson, Major, U.S. Air Force, for extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations against an armed enemy from 15 October 1962 to 27 October 1962. During this period of great national crisis, Major Anderson, flying an unescorted, unarmed aircraft, lost his life while participating in one of several aerial reconnaissance missions over Cuba. While executing these aerial missions, Major Anderson made photographs which provided the United States government with conclusive evidence of the introduction of long-range offensive missiles into Cuba and which materially assisted our leaders in charting the nation's military and diplomatic course. Through his extraordinary heroism, superb airmanship, and aggressiveness in the face of the enemy, Major Anderson reflected the highest credit upon himself and the United States Air Force."

IPTAY is widely regarded as the father of athletic fundraising. The IPTAY Scholarship Fund traces its roots to the 1930s. Dr. Rupert Fike is credited with being the originator of IPTAY, but the seed that Dr. Fike needed for his now much-envied group was planted there by then Head Coach Jess Neely.

On October 16, 1931, Clemson suffered a surprising 6-0 loss against The Citadel in a game played in Florence, SC. After the game, Captain Frank J. Jervy, Head Coach Jess Neely, Assistant Coach Joe Davis, and Captain Pete Heffner of the university military staff met in a car outside the stadium to discuss ways Clemson could help its football program get back on track. The meeting started the ball rolling towards the establishment of the IPTAY Foundation. Clemson would score just three touchdowns and win just one game in 1931.

Soon, Fike came into the picture through correspondence with Jervy. Jervy wanted to form the "50 ($50) Club," but Fike wanted a smaller amount, which he thought would mean more members and more money. Neely believed that if he could get $10,000 a year, he could give the Clemson fans a winning football team.

Then in 1934, Dr. Fike wrote his now famous letter to Neely stating, "Last night, we had a little meeting at our house and organized the IPTAY club." So began Clemson's athletic support group, which in those days stood for "I Pay Ten A Year." At that time, the purpose of IPTAY was "to provide annual financial support to the athletic department at Clemson, and to assist in every way possible to regain for Clemson the high athletic standing which rightfully belongs to her."

The organization was first established as a secret organization and initial membership dues were set at $10 a year (I Pay Ten A Year). A little more than $1,600 came into the coffers the first year of IPTAY, even in the heart of the Great Depression. Some payments were made in the form of barter. Milk, sweet potatoes, turnip greens, and the like were accepted in the initial efforts to build membership.

The excitement about the organization carried over into the 1934 season, and Clemson ran to its first winning season since 1930. Clemson had gone

0-5-1 against Furman and South Carolina in those years, then defeated both teams in 1934. The fruits of the labor really began to pay off in 1938, said former Clemson publicist Joe Sherman. In 1938, Clemson went 8-1-1, and the following season, Neely coached Clemson to its first bowl game, the 1940 Cotton Bowl, where the Tigers capped a 9-1 season by beating Boston College and Hall of Fame Coach Frank Leahy 6-3. Clemson ended the season ranked #12 in the final AP poll, its first top-20 season in history. Boston College was ranked #11 going into the contest, and it was Clemson's first win over a top-20 team in school history.

With over 22,000 members in the 2004 fiscal year, the organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA. IPTAY donors have contributed over $175 million since the inception of IPTAY.

While the basic principles of IPTAY outlined in 1934 remain the same, the scope of IPTAY has grown tremendously over the years. Not only does this unique organization provide for athletic scholarships, but it is a key toward building and maintaining the outstanding facilities that are essential for Clemson University to remain as one of the top intercollegiate athletic programs in the United States.

The 1983 construction of the upper deck on Memorial Stadium's north side and recent renovations were made possible by IPTAY.

In recent years, IPTAY has broadened its scope by building and renovating facilities that can be used by the entire Clemson University family - students, faculty, and administrators. In 1991, IPTAY funded the construction of a 27,000-square-foot facility to accommodate student-athletes' extended schedules and needs. When this facility, Vickery Hall, opened in 1991, it was the first support facility in the nation built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. Even today, Vickery Hall and its programs are completely supported by funds from IPTAY.

The organization is also responsible for the installation of lights for the intramural athletic fields on campus, band uniforms, and travel costs, and a variety of other amenities enjoyed by students not on athletic scholarship. IPTAY provided funds for the airport hangar used for the university's planes.

Under the leadership of George Bennett, IPTAY kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program in April, 1994 at the 85th birthday celebration for Frank Howard. The first endowment honored Howard, who coached at Clemson for 39 years, including 30 as head coach.

The mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked by IPTAY either. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, helping more than 45 students.

IPTAY, under the guidance of its Board of Directors, is continuously making improvements and adding programs to enhance the organization and university. In recent years, some of the most impressive changes have been the addition of the Tiger Cub Club, IPTAY CATS (Clemson Active Teen Support), IPTAY Collegiate Club, and the Tiger Pride Campaign. It is now focused on the WestZone Club, the fundraising effort to greatly enhance Memorial Stadium's West Endzone, and the construction of a "One Clemson" museum, which will document the history of the university and its athletic program.

IPTAY is expecting even more growth in the coming years, and its members track record of loyalty and generosity is well documented. The growth of the organization owes a large gratitude to Bennett, who retired as executive director in 2004. His over 25 years of service to IPTAY in two different eras was recognized in June of 2004, when he was honored with a Lifetime Service Award by NACDA.

Founded in 1934, IPTAY was the first scholarship fundraising organization in college athletics. Above are the leaders of IPTAY in 1956. Standing (L-R): Gene Willimon (executive director), J.O. Freeman, J. Edgar Rosamond, Marshall Walker, Harper Gault, and Frank Howard. Sitting (L-R): Calhoun Lemon, Red Ritchie, W. G. DesChamps, Paul Quattlebaum, Vic G. Chapman, and Dr. R.C. Edwards.
